ALUN CAIRNS - STANDING UP FOR THE VALE ALL YEAR ROUND

Cairns secures life changing operation for Barry schoolgirl

Nine year old Barry schoolgirl Niamh Hurn has won her battle to receive a life changing £30,000 operation after Alun Cairns MP pressed the case for funding from the NHS.

Following an intervention from Alun, the operation will now take place tomorrow, transforming the opportunities for young Niamh.

Mum Michelle Hurn from Barry said: "We want to thank Alun – without him we wouldn't have achieved this. My local MP played a vital role in ensuring that my daughter received the £30,000 life changing operation. We didn't think we would win the battle, but my whole family is grateful for the intervention from Alun. His support throughout the process was hugely valuable, and I know that Alun would support any family in Barry and the Vale in the same way. Above all, my local MP is approachable and does what he says he will do."

Mr Cairns said: "I am absolutely thrilled at the news that Niamh will get the much needed operation in the next few days. We worked hard for several months to get the operation approved on the NHS. The chances of a successful operation was very much time dependent as it was needed for Niamh before she was 10 years old. We were always hopeful that the NHS would fund the operation, but to get confirmation was such an emotional feeling.

"The Hurn family are a credit to the community – they have done an incredible amount of fundraising, and to see how happy the family were upon receiving the news, is a real highlight during my time as an MP."

Local MP sniffs out good cause

Vale MP and keen runner, Alun Cairns, is in training for the 2015 London Marathon next month as he aims to complete the course as the fastest MP and raise money for two local charities.

Mr Cairns will be running in less than a month to raise money for the Holton Road branch of the pet charity PDSA and Macmillan Cancer Support. The MP will be running the marathon just two weeks before the General Election on May 7th, and has been in training since Christmas to try and beat his previous time in 2014.

In Barry, the PDSA will benefit from the fundraising after Mr Cairns met with Barry resident Gail Smith and her dog 'Champ' who receives regular support for chronic diabetes.

Gail Smith from Barry said: "I am really pleased that my local MP will be running the marathon in aid of the PDSA. The charity has helped my family and Champ so much, and I am so grateful for the work they do. I will be supporting Alun in April, and hope he finishes as the fastest MP again."

ALUN SECURES ISLAND DEAL

Alun Cairns has expressed his delight that Barry Island will see a new top class fairground open ready for the summer.

For many months, Alun has played a key role in bringing together and guiding negotiations between the Barry Island Property Company and the new funfair operator Henry Danter.

The arrival of a new fairground on the Pleasure Park site is great news for Barry Island and the wider Vale. Alun is working with the new owner Henry Danter to build plans for the development of a multimillion pound funfair on the four acre site opening soon.

Alun said: "I am so pleased that the many months of hard work will result in a top class fairground for Barry. It has been a rollercoaster ride, but I have worked closely with parties involved to enable a wonderful boost for the area. It has been my aim since being elected in 2010 to get the Barry Island project moving. It is just the start, I know from speaking to local people that the desire exists for the Vale to make the most of its potential – I am determined to make the most of our natural assets.

He added: "I see this new scheme as just the start of significant regeneration in Barry that can boost the economy, create jobs and see businesses growing as a result of this significant investment. The time is right for private investment when we have low unemployment and the long term economic plan is working."

The MP has spelt out his plans to develop Barry and other parts into a year round destination with Barry Island the catalyst for growth in tourism in the wider Vale. During negotiations Alun discussed the project personally with the Prime Minister David Cameron, Chancellor of the Exchequer George Osborne and Secretary of State for Local Government Eric Pickles.

YOUR LETTERS

Operation due to MP's intervention

I wanted to write and highlight the enormous role Alun Cairns played in ensuring that my daughter received a £30,000 life changing operation on the NHS.

We didn't think we would win the battle, but my whole family is grateful for his intervention – he is approachable and does what he says he will do. His support throughout the process was hugely valuable, and I know that Alun would support any family in Barry and the Vale in the same way.

Michelle Hurn, Barry

MP secures my blue badge

Thank you, Alun. Though I've known him for a number of years, Alun's support since my accident in Rhoose, has been invaluable.

He's helped me in a number of ways to rebuild my life and helping me to win my battle for a blue badge has allowed me to do what I love best – working with children.

Alun has always been available to talk when I needed him and, moreover, he would come to see me and listen to the problems I had. Then sorted it all out within days. He is a fantastic local MP who will help anyone in the community.

Karin Williams, Rhoose

Continue to fight excessive housing, Alun

Alun Cairns MP clearly understands the issues surrounding excessive housing developments in communities.

He has provided an enormous amount of guidance and support in helping us fight excessive housing plans in Barry. He is always seen in the community, and knows people in every street.

That is what we expect from our local MP and that is why we wanted to write in. Housing is a hugely important issue in Barry and the rural Vale, and we are fortunate to have an MP that understands the system and the impact it can have on local residents.

Frank and Debra Cleland, Barry

Volunteering at its best

Credit where it's due, me and my friends agree that our MP Alun Cairns has been an MP that is genuinely trying to improve communities in the Vale of Glamorgan, and is happy to support residents no matter whether the issue is large or small. He has done so much for the volunteers that do so much in the local community.

He has raised tens of thousands of pounds for charity over the years, and has been a wonderful champion of local good causes. Nothing is too much trouble for Alun, and he has always tried to support our events that provide support and care in Barry and the wider Vale – long may it continue!

Chris Whitchurch, Barry

WORKING TOGETHER WITH LOCAL COMMUNITIES TO RESOLVE THEIR CONCERNS

Without question, the plans for excessive housing across Barry and the Vale have formed the largest part of my postbag over the last 5 years.

Whether you live near Highlight Park or Weycock Cross in Barry; Colwinston, Ystradowen, Cowbridge, St Nicholas, Wick or Wenvoe in the rural Vale, communities have been angry at how large numbers of houses are being foisted upon them.

In credit to the campaign groups in each community, all accept the need for some new housing. After all, we all have children and families and want them to be able to live in our community. Their anger was at the scale of development that was wholly against the natural extension of the settlement.

Worries also focussed around infrastructure, the impact on schools and local health services etc.

The background stems from the Welsh Government's directive to build 10,000 new houses in the Vale. This is a massive increase - 54% on the average built over the previous 15 years. The Vale Council had the opportunity to challenge the figure but chose not to do so. I objected strongly.

The next stage of the Local Development Plan is for the Vale Council to publish amendments based on the consultations. This amended plans will then be passed on to the Welsh Government for approval. I am a little concerned that this step seems to have been delayed. I hope that they are not planning more controversial proposals and waiting for the election to pass.

If the Welsh Government accepted new laws from the UK Parliament, we wouldn't be in this situation. In England, local communities are given much more control over their 'Neighbourhood Plans'. I personally asked the politicians in Cardiff Bay whether Wales could be included in the change of law. They refused.

Please be assured that I will do all I can to work with communities in challenging excessive proposals. We will have the opportunity to make our case to the Welsh Government directly. I plan to be there representing the whole of the Vale.

May I use this opportunity to thank all individuals and communities for their support over the last 5 years and I hope we can continue to do so after May 7th.

ALUN CAIRNS MP

Best for Dinas and the Vale

As an avid support of his, I can safely say that Alun Cairns is a highly respected and true representative of the people of Dinas Powys and the Vale.

His integrity, accessibility and hard work is enhanced by his ability to speak both Welsh and English. He is fighting for the transport network to be prioritised locally, and has held regular community meetings to listen and act upon the views of the residents. I have no doubt, judging by the letters in this paper, that many others feel the same way.

Margaret Hayley, Dinas Powys

Llandow and our MP

Many people have written lately about our MP Alun Cairns to this paper, but I couldn't think of a better person than him to represent the Vale of Glamorgan in Parliament.

His support for my area throughout the past five years is really appreciated, and I know that if he takes as much interest in other parts of the Vale as he does in Llandow then he is a champion of the area.

I hope Alun gets back in and is allowed to continue to be a wonderful campaigner for the Vale of Glamorgan.

Jane Spill, Llandow

I'm backing Alun for Barry

I have had the pleasure to know Alun for a number of years and he has been a vocal and active campaigner.

He has worked tirelessly to see the transformation of the iconic Barry Island Pleasure Park, and I know that he has done all he can to bring parties together, and find a solution to a long running saga. He believes in business being able to transform the prospects on Barry Island and create jobs and boost the economy.

Alun is a fantastic MP for Barry and the Vale of Glamorgan, and I am writing to tell people that I am supporting him again in 2015. I have lived in Wolfe Close for 40 years and have yet to see a Labour councillor – but my MP regularly visits the area and listens to real people.

Peter Woodford, Barry

Best for rural Vale

Our local MP Alun has taken up so many issues in the Vale of Glamorgan – from Peterston Super Ely right across to Ewenny he has fought battles on behalf of residents to achieve a positive outcome for the community.

The rural Vale has challenges around housing, and he instinctively understands the strength of feeling in a local village – and reflects that in his actions.

I know that if I call the office of Alun Cairns, then my views on any subject matter will be heard, considered and acted upon. He is a true champion of the local community, and I have no doubt many readers share this opinion.

Elizabeth Wills, Peterston Super Ely

Top notch service from top notch MP

I'm writing to highlight the fact that our MP Alun Cairns has been a wonderful support for me personally and gave me great assistance in helping me overcome a major issue. From the moment I approached him, I was confident that he understood and had a genuine concern.

It is my opinion that he went beyond the call of duty in helping me, and I regularly see him in Llantwit Major meeting local groups in the community. Thank you, Alun.

Mr G Smith, Llantwit Major

MP has my support

I'm writing to give my support to Alun Cairns in his campaign to retain his Parliamentary seat.

He has worked hard to resolve many issues of concern in Llantwit and the Vale and has taken wider issues to Westminster for attention. I wish him every success.

Heather March MBE, Llantwit

'Lasting memorial to a child is so important'

YOUNG COUPLE HELP OTHERS AFTER THEIR DEVASTATING LOSS

ABOVE: Sinead and Andrew (centre) and their family hand over the cheque to Paul Adamson (left) of The Jam Fund, at Sully Sports and Social Club.

REPORT by TIM CHAPMAN

LOSING a child is the most devastating event a parent can face – but one grief-stricken young couple in Barry have been able to help those in a similar plight.

Paul Adamson of The Jam Fund discovered through his partner Denise that Sinead Lewis and Andrew Townsend had lost their baby, Annabelle, at just one day old, and needed help to provide a fitting memorial stone.

Paul told The GEM: "As a parent who has lost two children, I understand how important it is to have a lasting memorial to a child.

"Memorial stones can be very expensive and the charity was pleased to donate funds for the purchase of a fitting headstone for Annabelle."

In fact, when Paul got in touch with Sinead and Andrew, he realised his son Sam had played football with Andrew at the age of 15.

Sinead, Andrew and their family wanted to thank The Jam Fund for its help. The charity was founded in memory of Paul's son Jamie, and has raised £400,000 over 10 years – helping hundreds of young people suffering from serious illnesses and supporting their families at their hour of greatest need.

MAN WILL BE DEPORTED AT END OF SENTENCE

Bulgarian's massive £400k cannabis farm in local property

CARDIFF CROWN COURT REPORT by AJ SICLUNA

CANNABIS with a potential street value of up to £412,000 was found being grown in a three-storey house in Barry.

Cardiff Crown Court heard that a Bulgarian national was looking after 397 plants, which were being grown in every room of the house.

Yanko Yankulov (45) described as a "gardener", admitted producing cannabis and was jailed for 14 months.

Prosecutor David Pugh said that on January 12, the police went to the three-storey house in Gladstone Road and discovered that the entire property had been converted for the production of cannabis on three levels. Yankulov was living in the property.

There was sophisticated lighting and ventilation and an electricity meter had been bypassed.

"It was a very large-scale operation," said Mr Pugh.

He said the potential yield would be worth £171,000 wholesale, but the street value would be up to £412,000.

Yankulov, he said, had been the only person at the property.

He said he was a Bulgarian national who travelled from Sofia to Manchester, where he met a friend and went to the address in Barry, after being given £100 to tend the plants.

His counsel, Jeremy Jenkins, said: "It's accepted he played a lesser role. He was actually employed as a gardener for the operation. He's always been extremely candid."

Recorder Greg Bull QC said: "I accept that your part was a lesser one, looking after the plants, but these premises had been turned into a cannabis factory.

"Had the operation not been stopped in its tracks, it would have gone on and on. It bordered on being a commercial operation, and only a prison sentence could be justified for such serious criminal activity."

He ordered that all the plants and equipment be destroyed, and ordered that Yankulov be deported at the end of his sentence.

Welsh helped to turn tide

I NOTE that at a recent meeting of Barry Men's Forum, Polly Davies gave an inspirational talk on the use of the Navajo's language in modern warfare (Navajo wind talkers were a secret war weapon – Forum hears: The GEM, March 5).

Well, there is a parallel nearer home: on my maternal side, generations of my family have served in the RWF, Royal Welch Fusiliers. My uncle, the late Reuben Eric Jones (RSM) fought with the RWF in Burma against the Japanese Imperial Army for four years.

The Welsh language was routinely used in open communications, to the consternation and bewilderment, of the Japanese forces.

So, those who doubt it, can also see that Welsh DOES have its uses, as the chance of having a fluent Welsh speaker in the Japanese regiments at Kohima or the Arakan was nil.

The use by the RWF of Welsh undoubtedly contributed to saving lives, and eventually throwing the Emperor's troops out of Mandalay.

Christopher Short, Barry.

Destructive plan for Colwinston

I SEE that the Vale Council leader has got his priorities right – welcoming the wonderful new beach huts on Barry Island, presumably with 35 per cent affordable housing!

Perhaps he can explain why so many 'unaffordable' houses are being dumped in the rural Vale? In Colwinston, on two previous occasions in 1988 and 1991, planning consent was rejected on the same land.

It has now been railroaded through for 64 houses. If there is always a presumption for planning approval, why do we need a planning department and planning committee?

It would save a lot of council tax and trees, with no more reports containing endless waffle.

So what will the ancient village of Colwinston have in return for this horrendous and destructive development – Redrow offering £15,000 for a piece of useless public art at the site entrance? What an insult!

Mr T Morgan, Colwinston.

Welcome back!

HOW nice to see again an article by the local historian Brian Keitch, whose encyclopaedic knowledge has graced the columns of local newspapers for several years.

I'm glad to see he is back on the scene again, and I look forward to reading about transport in the past.

It is a pity that the ships we see from our coast have declined in number and made the seascape rather bleak; but the glories of past transport are always there to be enjoyed.

Taxation solution to 'affordable housing'

THE 'affordability' of housing in the Vale is rightly raised in letters to The GEM. Official UK Government figures show that first time buyers had to pay 96 per cent more in 2011 than in 2001 – and prices have risen since.

This was despite the number of dwellings increasing faster than the population in this period.

The cost of housing has risen due to an excess of money being invested into the housing market, rather than a shortage of supply. Property has become a 'safe investment', rather than a community asset and most importantly, homes.

Latest Welsh Government figures show that there are 23,000 empty properties in Wales – and there are more than 300 empty homes in the Vale, plus numerous commercial premises.

We should all aspire to own our own homes, free from landlord restrictions and threat of eviction and able to invest in improvements. However, Westminster gives more importance to the financial gain of landlords and developers than the aspirations and needs of citizens and communities.

Young people are increasingly the 'serfs' of landlords. Simply building more dwellings will not reduce prices. It is not in the interests of developers, or housing associations, for prices to drop, so their current plan for new housing developments throughout the Vale is not intended to reduce prices, or to benefit communities, but to increase their profits.

The answer to the housing affordability problem is to reduce 'excessive investment' in property – through the taxation system.

Ian Perry, Cardiff (formerly of the Vale)

The cost of leaving EU

WITH reference to a recent letter from Mr Bradshaw, he has knocked the EU without giving substantive alternatives.

Government by politicians answerable to their electorates? I assume he means the discredited first past the post system under which it is estimated that 60 per cent of UK votes cast have no impact on the outcome of a general election whereas every vote cast in an EU election counts because of proportional representation and, of course MEPs are, I understand, answerable to their electorate.

On the common fisheries policy, this was introduced to try to halt further rapid decline in fishing stocks in EU waters, not to destroy the livelihood of UK fishermen. The EU now regulates the size of mesh in fishing nets, which allows young and immature fish to escape, so all fish taken are landed.

Farmers grow whatever is suitable for their land and what attracts the biggest EU farming subsidy. Judging from the number of solar farm applications in the Vale, solar panels currently seem to be the best crop. Farmers will do what is in their economic interest.

As for joining with EFTA, it consists of Norway, Switzerland and those two other economic powerhouses, Iceland and Lichtenstein. Through a treaty function called the European Economic Area EFTA countries have access to the EU, but only provided that they abide by all relevant EU regulations, including CE marking.

The UK would still be bound by all EU trading regulations if we left the EU and rejoined EFTA, but we would have no power to influence those regulations.

The EU has a major role in the formulation of trading policy in the World Trade Organisation. Everyone wants to trade with the EU and we benefit greatly from this fact. The UN FAO was founded in 1945 and the UK is a member in its own right as well as helping to co-ordinate EU involvement. The UN ECE was founded in 1947 and again the UK, as a permanent member of the UN Security Council, has its own representation in this organisation.

David Kennett, Barry.

THE family of Nest Evans would like to thank all those who contributed to the fund created in memory of her for the NSPCC.

House building in the Vale...
'CHANGE HAPPENS, ADAPT TO IT'

I FEEL compelled to respond to the recent letter by D and L Giles Betts, the couple who moved from London to Cowbridge and suggested that more houses should be built in Barry and not Cowbridge.

My message to them is capitalism is great if you are successful at it. I don't have a problem with that – but with capitalism, whether it is being involved in the property market or making money off people – you need to realise that one day undesirables, or people who don't match your status, will inevitably be living on your doorstep.

You cannot fight, it will happen (we live on an island); unless you are in the top one per cent of the five per cent who can afford 40 acres of land with a surrouding 16-foot perimeter wall.

I have lived in Barry for almost 50 years. I have seen green spaces and beautiful old buildings replaced with eyesores, and more and more new estates springing up in and around Barry.

I don't care too much for change but it happens. I adapt, and so should you,

Mark Overton Barry

'Why this charge for bulky items?'

I PHONED the Vale of Glamorgan Council today to arrange a collection of a couple of bulky household items; there were no available dates until next month and the woman I spoke to said that there would then be a charge – approximately £15 for three items (yet to be set).

Don't we pay enough council tax already for this? I get it that there are cutbacks, but we seem to be getting less and less for our money.

I also find it very sneaky of the council not to have informed the public – disgraceful!

(Name and address supplied).

WELL DONE, MIKE & CO!

I HAD an appointment in Cowbridge at 9.30am on Friday and not wanting to miss the eclipse, I brought my welding mask with me.

Quite a number of people were keen to use the mask and, while viewing the event in the High Street, I was 'papped' by Mike Wilcock.

Mike, and the other pro bono contributors to The GEM make a huge unsung contribution to the building of community, via your newspaper, and deserve more recognition. They use their time and own resources freely and we, as readers, all benefit.

Chris Samuel.

FOOTNOTE: We could not agree more! The GEM is deeply appreciative of Mike's and our other unsung heroes' contributions.

Plaid Cymru offers another way out

HOUSEHOLDS across the Vale of Glamorgan will have received their new council tax demands with anger as they face higher bills, but cuts to services – such as libraries, street lighting and winter gritting.

In just three years, the Labour-Llantwit First coalition that run the Vale Council has increased Band D average council tax by £130, a result of cuts to Wales by a different coalition in Westminster and the Labour Government in Cardiff.

That's a 14 per cent increase in our council tax in three years – more than two and half times the rate of inflation. In contrast, Plaid Cymru in the Vale has proposed a reduced council tax and to protect services, such as our libraries.

Our economic proposals mean that Wales would be £2 billion better off under Plaid Cymru than under a Labour Government, and much better off than if the current Westminster Government is re-elected, with all of the damage that would do to Wales.

Plaid Cymru believes that investment, better jobs and a living wage are better for our economy than making cuts to public services.

Coun Ian Johnson, Barry.

(Plaid Cymru – the Party of Wales candidate for the Vale of Glamorgan)

Council tax increase?

A FEW weeks ago, it was announced that there would not be an increase in council tax for 2015-16.

Now the council has announced that there will be an increase. An early April Fool stunt perhaps?

Can someone please explain?

P Hill,Barry.

'£109,000 parking fines are bad for Penarth image' SAYS TOWN COUNCILLOR

VETERAN Penarth councillor Anthony Ernest has hit out at a shock report showing parking fines amounting to more than £109,000 have been imposed on shoppers in the town centre, since the arrival of parking enforcement officers.

The former Penarth Mayor and past chairman of the Vale Council, told The GEM that the level of fines handed down to many unsuspecting motorists in central Penarth was "quite astounding", and showed that previous promises to give 'guidance' to those who might have inadvertently parked in error, rather than slapping a ticket on windscreens, had clearly not been carried out.

He reported: "I had a number of constituents complain to me about receiving a fine for parking outside the Co-Operative and Sainsbury's supermarkets in the bays that are partly for unloading and partly for limited waiting at different times of the day, and that they were unaware of the different restrictions on the very short length of road outside the shops.

"Following these complaints, I asked the Vale Council, which is responsible for the traffic officers, firstly how many tickets had been issued. The reply was '710', a few of which may have been cancelled. This figure included the bay outside the Nationwide Building Society, which is similarly restricted like the other two bays.

"In response to my question about how much 'advice' had been offered, no figures were available, but according to the Vale officers are 'fair and consistent'. I then asked on what traffic-related issues the fines had been spent, in accordance with the regulations, and the answer was that the scheme had made a loss and that nothing had been spent on improving traffic conditions.

"Finally, in reply to a further question about the difficulties being experienced by motorists who are caught by this non-standard form of parking regulation – where for part of the day they are unloading bays and the rest of the day available for anybody to park – the council said that it is 'reviewing the signs to establish if there is any way in which they can be altered or made clearer'."

Coun Ernest said the image of a town centre beset by unfair parking restrictions was having a bad effect on people coming to shop in Penarth, and those who had spoken to him were "absolutely furious" about the misleading restrictions. They said they would not use the town centre shops again, but rather go to the out of town supermarkets with free parking.

He went on: "I shall continue to press the Vale to urgently review the signage in the town centre and greatly improve their efforts to educate rather than penalise innocent motorists who come into Penarth to spend money in local businesses.

"Regrettably with the failure of the Business Improvement District project, no one organisation exists to seek change to improve the business climate in our town," he concluded.

COUPLE THOUGHT OF OTHERS DESPITE LOSS

Paul said: "Sinead, Andrew and their family organised a quiz night and raffle at Sully Sports and Social Club on Saturday, March 14.

"The event raised £2,100 – as I pointed out, effectively covering the cost of the original headstone.

"But since then, I've been contacted by two further local families who have sadly experienced similar, tragic events in losing babies.

"Both families had raised approximately half of the amount necessary for a memorial, so thanks to Sinead, Andrew and their family, The Jam Fund has donated the other half.

"In this way the family directly assisted the other two families, which I feel is very fitting. I think it is great that this young couple felt strong enough to help.

"I would also like to thank the management and staff of Sully Sports and Social Club for their kind support and to everyone who supported the evening.

"I also want to thank everyone in Barry and across the Vale for continuing to help The Jam Fund, including businesses who host a collecting box."

Andrew and Sinead want to thank Sully Sports and Social Club, Atlantic Way Cross Fit, Rhoose and District Social Club, local businesses and individuals who generously provided raffle prizes towards the fundraising evening, and everyone who attended it and made contributions.

For more on The Jam Fund go to: www.jamfund.co.uk/; or email: jamfund@sky.com.

Giving credit to the wartime women

THE contribution women made to the war effort in 1914 – 1918 is a little understood part of Welsh history.

However, the pioneering work of professional Deidre Beddow of Barry has shone a light on the huge part women played.

She was the guest speaker at the annual dinner of Dinas Powys Plaid Cymru and entertained the audience with an insight into work behind the front lines.

The initial impact in 1914 was to see women's employment fall as the middle classes dispensed with domestic staff. Wives faced very difficult times with pay from solders often being delayed for months and even a lack of food.

As the state moved into a total war attitude, there was demand for female labour for the production of blankets, uniforms and caps.

There was massive growth of the voluntary aid detachment to provide nursing care. There were two hospitals in both Barry and Penarth and St Winifred's now Cwrt Newydd at the junction of Cardiff Road and Elmgrove Road.

Over 521 patients were nursed at St Winifred's. Although nursing was the traditional face of women's work, they were in fact a driving force to supply munitions. Huge factories were built across Wales mainly employing women.

There were major factories in Wales including the Pembrey site which was the first to produce TNT in the UK. Although the work was well paid, the cost in terms of injury and health was very significant.

So although much is known about the Second World War and the Land Army, in reality women across Wales were a vital component in the 'Great War'.

Almost inevitably once the war was over women lost their jobs and thanks to official connivance also lost the benefits they had paid for and were due. Nothing seems to change!

Coun Steve Thomas gave the vote to thanks on behalf of Plaid Cymru.

Happy retirement Marko – after 50 years of hairdressing!

IN November 1963, our grandfather, Markos Asprou, came to Wales from a small village in the north of Cyprus, a young 16-year-old boy looking for an exciting new life.

He started work with his older brother John. With him, he learnt his trade as a gentleman's hairdresser.

After a few years he met his wife to be, Markella. They soon married and moved to 20 Park Crescent, Barry.

In 1969, 46 years ago this April, they started a life together and that was the beginning of Markos Asprou, Gentleman's Hairdresser.

As his business grew, his family grew too. He had two sons; one of them is our daddy, and the other is our uncle. Many, many people came to the shop to have their hair cut, a shave and sometimes 'something for the weekend'!

During the next 46 years, he came to know his customers, their children and now their grandchildren very well.

Our grandmother, Yiayia, worked at the shop too. She had a room at the back where she would make dresses for ladies and fix people's clothes. They worked together all the time.

Over the years our grandfather has seen lots of hair styles come and go.

In the 1960s, people liked to have a short back and sides. In the 1970s, people liked to have long hair, he says business wasn't very good then.

In the 1980s, people liked something called a 'flat top'; this was very popular and apparently he was very good at it.

In the 1990s, people liked a wedge cut. Now people like a short back and sides again. Things have gone back to the beginning, and there has always been the occasional comb-over.

Our grandfather tells us that it's not just about cutting hair. When his customers are sitting in the black chair having their hair cut, they talk to him about lots of things that are happening in their lives; good, bad, happy and sad.

He always listens and sometimes offers some good advice. He looks after his customers very well and they are very happy.

He loves it when we visit him at the shop, we sometimes help tidy up by sweeping the floor and he always gives us sweets as a treat.

After many years of hard work cutting hair, he has decided it is time to put his scissors down and his feet up. He has enjoyed every minute of working at the shop.

He says he would like to thank all his customers for their loyal support over the many years and sends them all his best wishes for the future.

His last day in work is April 4, 2015. The shop is going to still be open and looked after by his nephew so people can still get their hair cut.

APPEAL TO RESIDENTS:

'Be vigilant to prevent flytipping'

A BARRY councillor is asking locals to be vigilant to prevent further flytipping at an open space in the town.

Coun Richard Bertin has said he has received calls again from residents living near the open space between Daniel Street and Westbury Close which is earmarked for development.

The land in question is privately owned and has been previously been cleared several times in the past.

CounBertin said: "I would ask local residents to be vigilant and if they spot anything suspicious to call 101 with as many details as can be provided. The fly tipped waste is an unsightly blight and a nuisance to the local community."

Thank you!

ALL Saints Church Barry Mothers' Union would like to thank everyone who supported its coffee morning on March 14 in the Church Hall, Park Road, Barry, which raised a fantastic £617 for Mothers' Union charities.

The show will run from approximately 3pm to 5pm – doors open at 2.30pm.

The singers range from children up to adults. The show 'Celebrate the 1920s' will feature music from Bugsy Malone, Chicago, Singing in the Rain and other shows of the era.

It promises to be an unforgettable afternoon. Bar facilities and a raffle will also be available.

Married at St Helen's Church on April 4, 1955...

Jean and Peter now in Diamond celebration!

ABOVE: Just married – Jean and Peter celebrating after getting wed at St Helen's Church, Barry, in 1955; and below, Jean and Peter still smiling in 2015!

JEAN and Peter Venners from Barry, will be celebrating their Diamond wedding anniversary surrounded by family and friends at The Casa Paco restaurant on Good Friday (April 3)

The couple met in 1954 at the Savoy Dance Hall in Barry and married a year later on April 4, 1955.

The wedding ceremony took place at St Helen's Church in Barry.

Peter worked at Distillers (which later became BP) and Jean worked at John Bailey until the couple's first son Stephen was born in February 1956.

Their second son Jonathan arrived in May 1961.

Peter retired in 1982 from BP and they both did an 'around the world trip'. They have also travelled to Australia to visit Peter's brother and his family who emigrated some years ago.

They have both enjoyed travelling with friends and have always had a very active social life.

They are members of the BP club and often go on holidays with the club – they are off to Ireland this May.

Jean and Peter have two grand-daughters Jodie and Jade, and have always been loving supportive grand-parents, involved in caring for the girls when they were young and their parents were working.

A family member told The GEM: "They are a lovely couple and very much loved by their family."

NEW NURSERY FOR SCHOOL

ROMILLY Primary School in Barry celebrated the start of major expansion works with a turf-cutting ceremony this week.

After visiting Oak Field Primary School last week to mark the beginning of work on the school's new building, Coun Chris Elmore, cabinet member for schools, visited Romilly Primary to see the installation of a new nursery building and play areas.

He said: "I feel very proud to be able to announce the start of these projects. We're providing children in the Vale with the best facilities on offer, which will not only improve the standard of education they receive, but will also have huge impact on their prospects for the future."

The school has been provided with a new nursery classroom, which should be open to pupils before the end of the school year, as well as new play areas.

The project has been funded by the Vale Council.

'THANK YOU TO COMMUNITY AT THIS TRAGIC TIME'

AS we said goodbye to Rhodri, Alesha and Corey over the past week at their funerals, I am sure I speak on behalf of all families by thanking everyone within the community for their support and words of comfort at this time.

The attendance at the memorial service held at our Windsor Road Chapel was overwhelming, emotional, but I hope brought comfort to the parents, families and all the community.

The community was united at this tragic time. I wish to also thank our local police, PCSOs and Vale Highways for their outstanding support. From the moment we met up to discuss logistics for each funeral, possible road closures and manning of the funerals, their contribution and involvement was equally important as ours.

I wish to personally thank Deryn Martin, all PCSOs and officers present on the day of the funerals, and Mr Mike Clogg and Ken Evans of Vale Council traffic management.

You all played an active and important part, making sure that each funeral went smoothly and that Corey, Rhodri and Alesha were given a fitting, personal send-off.

I am sure that they will always be remembered and will be forever in the hearts of those who knew and loved them.

Lyndsay Ellis, Principal, Vale Funeral Service, Barry.

Hopes for livestock market site as council supports group's plan

IT'S all smiles at the moment between Cowbridge and the Vale Council – after the council agreed to continue supporting a local group's plans to retain and revitalise the livestock market.

by PHILIP IRWIN

It is a far cry from the angry scenes in 2011, when council plans to close the market and build an extra care retirement facility sparked angry protests – including a well-attended march and public meeting.

In the aftermath of that, the Vale market Action Group (VMAG) put forward plans to keep the market, and to investigate the possibility of building a market hall alongside it, which would be home to farm shops and other suitable businesses.

This week (Monday) the Vale Council cabinet met and decided to continue to support the VMAG's work to redevelop the market, after the cabinet gave their approval to initial plans.

A number of funding hurdles have to be cleared, but the proposal submitted includes a scaled down market to allow space for a new market hall, housing a number of small shops, a community café and covered open space that would sit alongside an older persons' residential development. Provision would also be made for public car parking.

At the meeting, the Vale Council's cabinet agreed that the initial plan has the potential to be developed into a deliverable proposal, and so VMAG have been given a further 12 months to refine their plan and begin to raise the required funds for the scheme.

While a viable proposal is being developed, the council will begin work on marketing the sections of the site proposed for older people's accommodation and car parking, and ensuring the necessary local infrastructure is in place.

Coun Lis Burnett, the cabinet member for regeneration, commented: "This is a huge leap forward for Cowbridge, not only in the redevelopment of the cattle market, but also in the role of the local community in driving it forward and in influencing the future direction of their town.

"Local people told us that they did not want to lose their market and that there was an opportunity to develop something for the benefit of the whole town.

"We listened and offered guidance and they have worked hard to come up with a proposal that appears to have great potential.

"I'm delighted that the council has been able to work with such a proactive group.

"The group now has a year to refine their plan and if that is a success we will be inviting bids to deliver the remainder of the proposal."

REMEMBERING THE FALLEN AT GALLIPOLI

ON Saturday, April 25 at 10.40am, the local Royal British Legion branch will hold a service of commemoration for the Gallipoli Campaign centenary.

The World War 1 campaign saw more than half a million Allied troops, 400,000 of them British, participating on land and in ships off the coast of Gallipoli.

In total, there were more than 200,000 Allied casualties, killed, injured or missing in just a few days of fighting. Because of the massive Australian and New Zealand involvement the day is also known as ANZAC Day and is remembered every year in those countries.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of Gallipoli and there will be a National Service of Remembrance in London on the same day.

You may also have seen recent articles about the artefacts from the paddle steamer Barry, which took part in the action, so it's all the more important that, as a town, we remember them. The South Wales Borderers were also heavily involved in the fighting.

The Royal British Legion would like as many people as possible to join us at this commemoration. Please meet at the Memorial Hall Cenotaph by 10.30am.

If any organisations wish to take par, either by having a Standard on parade, or by laying a wreath, call Teresa on 07776 111385; or to obtain a wreath, call Roy on 07900 660657.

TERESA GOODWIN, (Royal British Legion, Barry).

Red Nose celebration! Coun Chris Elmore, cabinet member for children's services, headteacher Ian Williams and Oak Field pupils.

'Exciting time' as first turf is cut for a new school

OAK FIELD Primary pupils invited Coun Chris Elmore, Vale cabinet member for schools, to a turf-cutting ceremony to celebrate the start of work on the school's new building.

The school and Ysgol Gwaun Y Nant currently occupy separate parts of the same site in Barry. The £3.7m redevelopment now under way will see the English-medium school move into a brand new building.

Following the move, the buildings that both schools share will be extensively renovated, to provide a bigger home for the Welsh-medium school.

Coun Elmore said: "With this project, we are not only providing a first rate English-medium school for a vibrant and close knit community.

"We are also addressing the need to increase the number of Welsh medium places in Barry by doubling the capacity of a popular school and greatly enhancing its facilities. This is yet another example of the council's commitment to improving schools in the Vale."

Ian Williams, headteacher at Oak Field, said: "It's a really exciting time at Oak Field. There is a real buzz around the school. This has been a long time coming and the children and community of Gibbonsdown deserve to have the very best on offer.

"I look forward to an extremely bright future and continuing to build on all our recent success in a fabulous state-of-the-art school. I can't wait."

Behind the camera in the TV studio

THE speaker at last week's Men's Forum, was Don Llewellyn, who reminisced about the wonderful career he had had in the television industry.

Ever since his childhood, Don was interested in photography, and in 1959 he said he was very lucky to get a position at HTV as a cameraman. However, it didn't take him long to realise that film editing was a more interesting and challenging occupation, which he transferred to.

By 1969, "being at the right place at the right time" helped him to be appointed as a director of programmes, of every possible variety.

When HTV, in 1981 moved into the new studios at Culverhouse Cross, which at the time were the best television studios in Europe. one of the first productions he was involved in was the "Survival of the Fittest". This programme involved many of the famous sportsmen of the time undertaking numerous challenges, like climbing cliff faces, jumping into fast flowing rivers, and all sorts of other dangerous activities.

He often had to manage over ten camera crews, with 80 staff to record the various activities as they took place, often they were racing against the clock.

He admitted that he still wakes up at night horrified at some of the activities they put the athletes through!

He went on to recounted a veritable gallery of famous people and programmes he had been involved with during his career, and awards for the programmes he had made.

The Barry Men's Forum meet at the Trinity Presbyterian Church Hall, at the junction of Trinity Street and Aberystwyth Crescent every Thursday at 10.15am until noon.

On Thursday, March 27, the speaker, Mr Chris Bleach, is highlighting the history of the Cardiff Gaslight & Coke Co.

Artist describes cross-border journey to 'self'

ARTS graduate intern at Art Central Gallery, artist Josephine Sowden gave a talk to members of Art Central FRIENDS at Barry's Art Central venue last week.

Josephine has been employed for the past couple of years aiding Tracey Harding, the arts development officer for the Vale.

Josephine has also continued her development as an artist, producing photographic and video presentations based on different aspects of her view of the ego and how it impacts on the human state, interacting with the effect of man on the environment.

She called her presentation 'Journey' and it comprised a PowerPoint presentation of her photographs and videos, going back to her sixth form and university.

Crossing the border to Wales, she studied photography in Newport. One of her first videos called 'The Lilies of the Fields' has gone on to win acclaim and several awards, the most prestigious of which was the gold medal in art at the National Eisteddfod in 2013.

Josephine explained how and where she gets her inspiration; she reads widely and to increase her awareness of 'self' has been to Buddhist retreats, where meditation and working in silence has increased her sense of spirituality.

One of Josephine's videos demonstrated her take on the subjugation of women over the centuries – it was a delicate, moving but very soul-searching exposition.

Many of the audience asked searching questions, which Josephine ably answered.

Councillor welcomes remedial work at Penarth Esplanade

COMPLAINTS that footpath and pollution issues on the Esplanade needed urgent attention by the authorities, have been quickly resolved, after action taken by the Vale Council and developers.

The work followed an intervention by local councillor Anthony Ernest, who said: "After I contacted the Vale, steps were taken within a matter of days, after years of flibustering and proscrastination, which had given considerable distress to both local residents and visitors.

"As most Penarthians will know, a long stretch of the pavement had been blocked off with blue hoardings and contractors' debris littering the area, while at the same time a noisy pollution-emitting generator ran 24 hours a day giving residents of nearby apartments no relief from these emissions and sleep loss noise.

"A number of residents were kind enough to let me know of their concerns and this was invaluable when I called on the Vale public health regulator, to get this matter sorted out in a timely manner.

"The Vale will now also be able to implement the new parking slots that have been promised for many months, and hopefully this is the end of the matter."

Coun Ernest also welcomed the repainting of the railings and lamposts along the Esplanade and up Beach Hill which is now at completion stage.

"I have been calling for this much needed work to be carried out for the last few years as part of the annual pre-Easter works, but finances did not allow this until the council had put in place several large rises in council tax, which only now are being partly allocated to restoring Penarth's much loved heritage infrastructure.

"That concrete kerbstones and steel reflector posts have been used for the last 13 years to mark off parking bays has been an absolute disgrace, and had a resident used similar unsympathetic materials in the conservation area, they would have had the wrath of the Enforcement Officers on them within days," he said, pointing out that the Vale itself has a greatly improved record of sympathetic construction in more recent years.

"Should there be any similar or other problems in Plymouth Ward (south Penarth), I can always be contacted at Penarth 20 702111 or by email, when I will take up these issues on residents' behalf", he concluded.

Food festival is getting ready for a Maytime extravaganza

THE organisers of the Cowbridge Food and Drink Festival are gearing up for this year's event – which for the first time will take place in May.

The festival makes a welcome return on Sunday May 24 and Monday, May 25, and there will be a number of changes!

The festival manager Polly Wilson said: "With our move from autumn to spring, this is the ideal time to ring the changes.

"We have addressed feedback and created a further site for ticket-holders which will hold the hot food stalls, a seating area and a performing space for local musicians.

"We hope that this will create a family friendly relaxing hub, although I'm sure the usual queues will occur at the old favourites".

The extra performing space has led the organisers to put out a call to local musicians who would like to showcase their talents.

Polly said: "We are asking local artists of every genre and age to get in touch with sound clips or link to their work.

"We will put in a PA and are offering 30-40 minute slots for them to perform throughout the weekend. It is a great way of widening your audience and perhaps shifting a few CDs." Full details and the complete line up can be found on the website www.cowbridgefoodanddrink.org. To submit an audition clip, email a You Tube link to info@cowbridgefoodanddrink.org or post a CD to Polly Wilson, c/o Effective Communication, 46-48 Cardiff Road, Llandaff, Cardiff, CF5 2DT.

Tickets for the festival - which cost £5 per day or £8 for the weekend – can be purchased online for the first time with a 10 per cent discount on all pre-sale tickets. Children 12 years and under go free.

'Wonderful island on our doorstep'

CADOXTON WI NEWS

AT the Monday meeting on March 16, Peter Samson gave a fascinating talk about Flat Holm.

This wonderful island is full of history and on our doorstep. One member was so impressed she decided to give her husband an annual subscription as a gift.

What a lovely idea! As well as the trips planned for members, there were several invites from other WIs. This month the members are going to Barry College for a St Patrick's Day lunch and next month is the fashion show at Mumbles, organised by GFWI every two years.

As part of the centenary celebrations, there was a thanksgiving at Llandaff Cathedral on March 7.

Members from over 90 institutes attended and their banners were proudly displayed.

Blanche Thompson happily carried the banner for Cadoxton (Barry) WI.

The raffles were won by Marion Cole and Linda Bryan. Meetings are held every third Monday at Victoria Park Community Centre. Do drop in and meet us, everyone is welcome; contact 01446 404891.

Volunteers celebrate, then look ahead

LAST week, volunteers from Valeways, the charity dedicated to pathway clearance and walking in the Vale of Glamorgan, celebrated a year of working and walking with a lunch at the Cwm Ciddy, Barry.

The social break was enjoyed by all volunteers who include groups from the local 'Scope' organisation and from Atlantic College, St. Donats, as well as regular walk leaders. All of them have been out in all weathers throughout the year, working to keep public pathways in the Vale clear, as well as running a programme of led walks available to all.

As well as this continuing programme the volunteers will now focus attention on the Vale Walking Festival which, organised by Valeways, is now in its sixth year. The festival will run from May 21-24 offering four days of led walks, making the most of our glorious coast and countryside in the Vale.

With assistance from a wide variety of people and organisations; the Ramblers, Amgueddfa Cymru, Creative Rural Communities are just three examples, the Festival offers an unrivalled opportunity to enjoy the rich environment on our doorstep. All walks in the programme are free.

This year, there is a new link with the Vale of Glamorgan Festival renowned for its annual programme of new music. Three walks will link in with the time and location of concerts.

Information on the Walking Festival and about Valeways in general can be found the website www.valeways.org.uk or by phoning 01446 749000.

Suspended sentence for Vale man after police find drugs

CARDIFF CROWN COURT REPORT
by AJ SICLUNA

AN Ogmore-by-Sea man has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment, suspended for two years, for possessing mephedrone worth £320 with intent to supply.

Lewis Jones (24) of Main Road, admitted the charge.

Prosecutor Jason Howells said the drug was found after police searched a house in Wheate Close, Rhoose.

It was in a black bag and consisted of 18 "deals" in silver foil wraps.

Jones told officers: "That's all I've got. They are all mine."

Officers also found a set of digital scales.

The court heard that Jones had two previous convictions for possessing cannabis and at the time, said Mr Howells, was on licence involving a 20-month sentence for wounding and possessing offensive weapons. His solicitor, John Lewis, said: "For some time, he was using Class B drugs socially with friends."

Since October, he said, he had stopped taking drugs, had moved from the Barry area, and was now settled with his partner.

Judge Patrick Curran told him: "You had bought mephedrone for a group of friends. You purchased an amount every two weeks and it's accepted it was not done for profit. You have ceased associating with those individuals, and you have ceased taking drugs."

He was also made subject to a supervision order for two years and ordered to carry out 150 hours unpaid work.

Stagecoach students wow audience in the West End

ON Sunday, March 22 students from Stagecoach Theatre Arts School in Bridgend and Cowbridge gave a show-stopping performance based on the musical Ghost at her Majesty's Theatre in London's West End.

Students from 17 Stagecoach schools around the country took to the stage, treating the audience to a range of theatrical and musical pieces. The programme included numbers from the soulful musical, Blues Brothers and classic hits from the enchanting show, Wicked.

Stagecoach Principal, Helene Reynolds said: "I am delighted that pupils from my schools had the opportunity to perform at this iconic venue. Everyone has had a brilliant time rehearsing for the production and it was great to see them on stage.

"Performances like this showcase the hard work of our students, providing them with memorable experiences and life skills which they can use throughout their careers."

Bridgend and Cowbridge Stagecoach School is part of a network of more than 600 part-time theatre arts schools worldwide. Early stages classes are available for children aged 4 to 6 and main stages classes take place for 6 to 18 year olds.

'Cable car to Penarth plan is an exciting prospect' – Tory AM

PLANS for a cable car linking Cardiff Bay, the city centre and Penarth have been welcomed by South Wales Central regional AM, Andrew RT Davies.

The link could see as many as 2,500 passengers carried each hour, but could cost as much as £100m to build.

"According to reports, the project would be financed by a combination of private and public money," the Conservative AM said.

"While there is a long, long way to go before these plans become reality, you can't help but be excited by the prospect. Not only would a cable car attract tourists to the region, it could also attract public funding from a number of sources if it can be proven that it would be a viable public transport option.

"The Chancellor's announcement of a potential Cardiff city deal could bring exciting projects like this closer to reality, and whilst an element of private money would be required the UK government is making transformational ideas like this a possibility," Mr Davies added.

'The Green Party is attracting support' – CANDIDATE CLAIMS

THE Green Party candidate for the Vale at the forthcoming general election, Alan Armstrong, (second from left) is pictured right, canvassing in Llantwit Major on Saturday (March 21).

Supported by party members, he handed out leaflets and discussed its policies with local residents.

"The Green Party's vision of an anti-austerity, fairer, and sustainable society is attracting a lot of voters," he said.

"People are unhappy at the grey similarity between the major parties.

"There is a desire for change and the Green Party offers voters the chance to change. There is a growing awareness, too, of the need to urgently address the issue of climate change. Only the Green Party is giving this issue the priority it demands," he claimed.

Rainbow Group joined by Vale AM – for Yoga!

ABOVE: Jane Hutt AM is pictured (front, second right) with members of the Rainbow Group at the Pioneer Hall.

ON March 20, the Vale AM, Jane Hutt joined the Women's Rainbow Group for their yoga session at Pioneer Hall, Barry.

The group aims to encourage women from the local ethnic community to meet and become more active, avoiding isolation and bringing communities together.

Ms Hutt said: "I have supported the Rainbow Group since it started its first women-only swimming sessions in Barry almost five years ago. Physical activities such as swimming, yoga and Zumba not only offer obvious health benefits for members, but also help women to integrate and become active in the community."

Lobby group says ovarian screening needed in Wales

by GEM REPORTER

A former palliative care nurse says there needs to be a screening programme in Wales for ovarian cancer.

The nurse, who cared for dozens of people across the Vale and Cardiff and wishes to remain anonymous, said the provision of tests was overdue.

She told The GEM: "There is screening for breast cancer, cervical cancer and colon cancer and it has saved lives. At present there is no screening for ovarian cancer.

"A total of 7,000 women throughout the United Kingdom are diagnosed with ovarian cancer each year – in Wales 387 are diagnosed, and around 233 lose their lives.

"Sometimes it is because the diagnosis comes too late. The symptoms are persistent bloating, abdominal pain and needing to wee more urgently."

The good news is that a simple test can identify whether a woman has ovarian cancer.

The former nurse said: "A 'CA125 blood test' is a 'tumour marker' and provides a strong indication. A GP can then refer a woman to a gynaecologist who will do a vaginal scan."

The nurse has two former colleagues who have developed ovarian cancer.

"A group of women is preparing to lobby the Welsh Government about a screening programme. A simple blood test can save lives. We would like to see screening starting at the age of 50."

The issue of ovarian cancer hit the headlines this week after it was revealed that film actress and director Angelina Jolie had chosen to have her ovaries removed. Her mother Marcheline Bertrand died in 2007 after a battle with ovarian cancer.

Join 'Big Lunch' for friendship, food and fun!

COMMUNITIES in Bridgend are being invited to join in the UK's biggest annual get together for neighbours, as registrations open for The Big Lunch 2015.

The Big Lunch, now in its seventh year, is an Eden Project initiative aimed at bringing neighbours together to build safer, happier communities. It is funded by the Big Lottery Fund and partnered by Halifax and ASDA.

In 2014, a massive 4.83 million people took part, including 120,000 in Wales. This year the Big Lunch is encouraging people to get together for a day of friendship, food and fun on Sunday, June 7.

Gwion Thorpe, The Big Lunch co-ordinator for Wales, said: "A Big Lunch is the perfect ice breaker and proves that everyone has something to contribute to the community – whether that's their grandmother's sponge cake recipe, their crafting skills which allow them to create beautiful bunting and table decorations or just their knack for telling a good story.

"It's wonderful how the simple act of sharing lunch together on one day a year can start to change, quite profoundly, how people feel as part of their wider community; fostering a greater sense of place and belonging and helping people feel more included, valued and able to contribute to their community."

Anyone wishing to hold a Big Lunch on June 7 can register online for a free pack; v i s i t www.thebiglunch.com.

Search for old comrade

I AM looking for David Chilton, my National Service comrade from 1960-62, after basic training at Aldershot and then with the Army (RASC) in Aden.

I know he lived at Ogmore Vale and worked in local government at Bridgend, but no trace there. He will be 75 now.

We took leave together in Nairobi and again in Mombasa, Kenya. I am hoping that he is still alive but if not, someone who has knowledge of him will make contact. Thank you.

Rail fan brings Red Arrows back to Barry Island

JOHN BUXTON, Managing Director of the Barry Tourist Railway Tourist Railway has again secured the Red Arrows and the Battle of Britain Memorial Flight for this year's 'Barry at War' weekend, June 20 – 21 centred on Barry Island Railway Station.

He said: "Last year's 'Barry at War' event was a great success bringing over 40,000 people to Barry Island over our 'Barry at War' weekend. We're determined to make our 2015 event even better to mark the 70th anniversary of the end of World War Two.

"In this regard, the appearance of the World War Two Avro Lancaster Bomber from the Battle of Britain Memorial Flight at our event will be particularly poignant".

"We are keen to tell people about the history of Barry – particularly the docks, the railway and the key role Barry played in the two World Wars. I am proud of the 'Barry at War museum' that has been developed at Barry Island station by our Barry at War volunteer group, headed up by Glenn Booker.

"This will be a key feature of the event, with the re-enactors in period uniforms and dress, together with military and fashion displays, plus vintage stalls giving the station an authentic 1940's atmosphere. There's also a jazz festival going on!

"Barry is a great place and we're so pleased that we have secured the Red Arrows and Avro Lancaster for our 'Barry at War' event to help people understand more about the town's wartime history. xThis year, the Barry Tourist Railway and the Barry at War museum will bring an additional 50,000 visitors to Barry to see and hear that story," John concluded.

For more information, contact John Buxton, Barry Tourist Railway: 01446 748816. email: john.buxton@cambriantransport.com.

Richard III's Cowbridge connection...

FOLLOWING his ceremonial burial in Leicester, King Richard III is in the news – but how many people know he had a Cowbridge connection?

Local historian Betty Alden has been looking at this, and here she reports on her investigations:

IN 1472, when Duke of Gloucester, Richard married Anne Nevill, daughter of the Earl of Warwick – born in Warwick Castle – and took on the title of Lord of Glamorgan from her inheritance.

Both Richard and Anne were seemingly highly religious and supported the building of many religious establishments, and she was a great landowner in this area.

Lady Anne Nevill is said to have gifted the building of the Llanquian, or south aisle, at Cowbridge Holy Cross church in 1473 (possibly named as a replacement for the former medieval chapel of St James, which is thought to have been at Llanquian on Stalling Down); and also the tower of Llanblethian church.

Richard was crowned King in 1483, but it was under the title of Lord of Glamorgan that he issued a charter in the following year for Cowbridge.

It instructed the Bishop of Llandaff to ensure that a chaplain was appointed to serve Cowbridge church.

Cowbridge townspeople had petitioned their King to help them in this respect.

That same year of 1484, Richard called his first and only parliament.

His days as King were numbered, the threat of an invasion by Henry Tudor overshadowing his reign.

His queen, Anne, died unexpectedly in March 1485 at the young age of twenty eight (they had just one son), and we now know for sure that Richard was killed at the Battle of Bosworth, Leicester, that August.

THE combination of speaker, Sir Richard Dearlove, former head of M16, and a talk entitled 'National Security: Past, Present and Future' proved to be a honeytrap for 250 members of the south Wales branch of the English Speaking Union when they met for lunch at the Cardiff City Stadium.

Sir Richard, who had been recruited into the Secret Service while a student at Cambridge, served for 38 years in a range of responsibilities in the UK and overseas, including Nairobi, Prague, Paris, Geneva and Washington, where he was head of station.

His time in Prague was during the Cold War, and his description of the role of Spymaster – microphones hidden in every room of his house and clandestine meetings to recruit, train and liaise with British and foreign agents – was the stuff of James Bond but with thrilling authenticity.

Sir Richard presented a comprehensive and masterly review of the threats facing the UK, from ISIS and Al-Qaeda terrorists to the growing possibility of Russian intervention in the Baltic States and left the audience both enthralled with the speech and demanding a return visit.

Future branch events include a talk from Jack Straw on 'Iran; Rogue state or Ally?' on June 11, in partnership with the University of South Wales; a summer evening garden party at Fonmon Castle on July 16; and a talk in the autumn by Lord Lisvane, the former Sir Robert Rogers, recently retired Clerk to the House of Commons.

For information regarding membership, contact branch chairman Derek Morgan on 01656 669129 or email dwcaym@googlemail.com.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Branch Manager Phil Powell feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Vale, Bridgend, RCT and Porthcawl areas and Phil is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Phil a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Ryan Reynolds shines in uneven dark comedy...

by GARETH JAMIESON
Follow Screen Talk on Twitter – @GEMScreenTalk

IF anyone exemplifies the up and down nature of Hollywood it's Ryan Reynolds.

The affable performer has, since his breakthrough way back in 2002 with Van Wilder, attacked most genres available, balancing frothy comedies like The Proposal with blockbusters like Green Lantern and more dramatic fare like Buried.

However, his latest film sees him return to the off-kilter, idiosyncratic genre he first dabbled with in 2005's The Nines (a curio worth seeking out) in The Voices, where he plays Jerry, a man who's encouraged by his court-appointed psychiatrist to ask out his work crush Fiona (Gemma Arterton).

But when she stands him up on a date, events soon unravel, not helped by the fact that Jerry's pets are talking to him...

Talking animals aren't a new phenomenon in films; after all Dr Doolittle had his share of talking to the animals, while the likes of Cats & Dogs also saw creatures talking too, but the concept has rarely been used to such dark effect as it does in The Voices.

The talking pets may be only one strand of the film, but together these come together to make a blackly comic film that straddles the line between comedy and horror very bravely, and if ultimately its execution is outstripped by its ambition, it still makes for an intriguing viewing experience.

Its ace card is in Ryan Reynolds, an actor who may have had a tough time of it lately, moving from critically-panned film to critically-panned film, but who is more than capable of handling his own in the acting department.

To be fair to the actor, given his present position in the Hollywood pecking order, this film is a brave choice, but one he grabs with both hands. As the film develops, we learn that Jerry is far more than just your usual, socially-awkward individual, yet Reynolds' delivery is pitched just right.

The film may jar between off-kilter comedy and slasher/serial killer horror, but Reynolds' turn manages to anchor it, the actor looking at his best since Buried.

His funny bone is the one we're used to seeing, but when given weightier material he doesn't do badly and this plays to his strengths, while his voice work for his pets, a cantankerous, sociopathic Scottish cat and a dog with a deep voice and a sad face, mines more towards comedy but works well.

What is lacking is enough of a sturdy construction around Jerry to really hold the film up. Reynolds holds up his end of the bargain, but the story never truly decides where it wants to lie. It's pitch black in places, and Marjane Satrapi's direction is wonderfully stylised to suit the mood, whether it's going full on Friday The 13th as Jerry 'innocently' tries to catch up to a character, or a bonkers song and dance number at the film's climax that should be hopelessly out of place but cruises by on its goofy charm.

There are some lovely little touches dotted throughout – the way the world visually changes when Jerry is taking the medication he so desperately should be using, through to a whole new take on talking heads – but you still can't quite get hold of what screenwriter Michael R Perry is trying to get across.

There are likeable enough turns from Gemma Arterton and Anna Kendrick as Jerry's co-workers, who bite off more than they can chew when they get close to him, and the whole is more than engaging, but ultimately The Voices' undoing is its lack of focus when it comes to its tone.

There's nothing wrong with trying to be dark and funny, but the inability here to pitch it precisely enough means that while it's a diverting and interesting watch, it certainly won't linger long afterwards.

VERDICT – A curious film that is tonally a little awkward, The Voices still manages to engage, in no small part thanks to Ryan Reynolds' well-pitched lead turn. Its lack of focus may knock a few marks off it, but as an off-the-wall dark comedy it does a good job. Enjoyable.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: Life After Beth (2014), American Psycho (2000).

COFFEE MORNING RAISES MONEY FOR VALEPLUS

AT a charity coffee morning hosted by the Mayor of the Vale, Coun Howard Hamilton, in the Civic Offices, £573 was raised to help Valeplus to carry out their work in the area.

At the event, the trustees of Valeplus were presented with a cheque for £484 by Bernard and Vina Honeysett. For his recent 80th birthday, Bernard generously asked friends and family to make donations to ValePlus, instead of giving him gifts.

Steve Thomas, of ValePlus, said: "We are extremely grateful to Bernard and Vina for their generous gift and to the mayor for hosting this event. The money raised will be put towards the cost of a new mini bus for our service users."

Oxfam in Penarth needs volunteers

VOLUNTEERS retiring or finding work elsewhere spell a challenge for the Oxfam shop in Penarth.

It means there is a gap in the front of shop volunteer team.

The Oxfam shop in Penarth has always had the support of the local community which over the years has resulted in numerous volunteers coming forward to help Oxfam raise funds for their work at home and abroad. Now Jayne Luxton, the shop manager, is seeking new volunteers who enjoy meeting members of the public and working as part of a small, diverse and committed team.

Jayne said: "We are so grateful to all the volunteers who have given so many years of their time to help us in the shop, some of whom have now moved on to other things.

"Our current volunteer team includes people from diverse backgrounds from students, the unemployed and retired. Recently we put out an appeal for volunteers to help us price up books and we had a tremendous response.

"Now we urgently need new volunteers to complete our volunteer team by helping us with our 'front of shop' work."

Anyone who would like to know more should ring or call in and ask for Jayne Luxton at the Oxfam Penarth shop, 8/8a Windsor Street, Penarth. Telephone 02920 706358.

'The COUNCIL has transformed the Island'

by Coun NEIL MOORE Leader of the Vale of Glamorgan Council

MARCH is always a busy and sometimes controversial time when setting the council tax for the following year. So, it is always interesting to see the politicking that occurs at that time, but the work to get to that final position takes place months beforehand, when all councillors can get involved in one way or another.

Each year there is an opportunity to scrutinise the initial budgets during November for all councillors to consider, but usually there are no amendments proposed and so the final budget is calculated including the amount of council tax needed to balance income against the expenditure. The council's budget comes, mainly, from the Welsh Government grant and council tax, so any shortfall in income has to come from two sources, either a use of reserves or an increase in council tax.

The main source of income comes from Government, which was again cut by 3.5 per cent or £5.5 million this year. We are making savings of over £6.8million next year and an estimated £24.7million over the next three years. We are also using £2.5million of reserves to balance the budget.

As council tax only provides a quarter of the council's income, this year a rise of 3.9 per cent gives about 1 per cent increase of our total income, far less than our reduced budget. Our spending will also reduce by £2million despite the increase in council tax. It should also be noted that, unlike in England, no funding has ever been allocated to Welsh Councils to enable them to freeze council tax.

I consider that the proposed increase in council tax in the Vale is a reasonable balance between the financial pressures on services, particularly education and adult social care and the financial pressures on our council taxpayers, which I fully understand. However, if services are to continue there was no reasonable alternative.

I have indicated previously, this administration's aim is to set council tax at the average in Wales (we are still below that level) as well as meet the amount of money the Welsh Government suggests we should spend on services. In line with our commitment to schools, we are achieving that suggested level.

This pragmatic approach and a rise of a 3.9 per cent in council tax, which equates to £40.14 for the year (less than £1 a week) on a Band D property, is one of the lowest in Wales, whereas other councils, like Cardiff, have increases of five per cent.

I therefore find it incredible that this administration is being attacked for setting budgets in this way and doing so as a result of the cuts being imposed on the council and Welsh Government by the Westminster Government. If services are to survive then the money has to come from somewhere, and should be found by increasing taxes on the multi-national companies, many of whom it appear, avoid paying taxes, along with the richest in our society.

We should not be hitting those worse off in society. Why do we have 'foodbanks' in the 21st century, which by the way, were not supported by our MP initially. I never ever believed that I would see a return to the 'soup kitchens' of the past, but regrettably it has become a reality.

I think that Westminster politicians should stand up and be counted and not be politicking locally about things for which they have no responsibility and which are devolved matters to either the council or Welsh Government. To do so, in my opinion, is a smokescreen to the real issues emanating from Westminster.

Last month I indicated this administration's desire to continue to improve schools and reported on the consultation for co-education in Barry with a preferred option for a way forward. Since then, the cross-party scrutiny committees have discussed it and received representations from teachers and parents. The points they raised will be considered by a further cabinet report, which could make some subtle, but I hope acceptable changes to our preferred option (such as no phasing of year groups).

This will be considered before the commencement of the eight-week consultation, due to begin on May 11, 2015.

I also note that there has been an open letter to me in the press from teachers and I will respond through a letter to the press, as I have received no 'direct' letter from them. However, I have made it clear that if the majority of parents, pupils and staff, do not want co-education, so be it. However, I reiterate the point that this could lose grant funding from Welsh Government to rebuild and renovate the secondary schools in Barry, in a similar way to the schools in Cowbridge, Penarth and soon Llantwit Major.

I sincerely hope we can see the £35million secondary schools transformation and the creation of separate English and Welsh medium campuses in Barry.

I understand that the local MP has become involved in this educational matter, even though Westminster plays no part in education in Wales, it being a devolved matter. I think it would be better to concentrate on Westminster issues, like the massive public service cuts that he supports, such as the 'bedroom tax' etc. It is now also clear from the budget that more public service and welfare cuts are on the way, so where does he stand on those issues?

I fail to see why devolved matters are of interest to a Westminster politician who claims to be solving them. I am afraid I have to set some records straight as our MP seems to imply, through his literature, that he has in some way transformed Barry Island, secured investment on Barry Island and secured a new pleasure park on Barry Island.

Let's be fair – he may have talked to some people, but it is in fact the Vale of Glamorgan Council that has transformed the Island with the help of Welsh Government grant aid and has nothing to do with Westminster.

It was the Vale of Glamorgan Council's planners who have been negotiating over the funfair site and resolved the planning application. It also has to be emphasised that planning did not prevent the funfair from opening as no planning application was required to continue as it was. It also seems that our MP has now become involved with leisure issues; another devolved matter, but completely misunderstands the issues under consideration by the Vale of Glamorgan Council.

Similarly, there are issues with the libraries, which we are attempting to restructure, hopefully in partnership with the community. This situation would not be needed if the Westminster cuts were not so severe.

It is suggested that the Vale is not funded in the same way as other councils, which relates to the funding formulae in place. Although the Welsh Government has carried out reviews, it does not assist us as the criteria used such as deprivation, free school meals, European Funding Areas (we are not in one) do not give us the extra funding available elsewhere.

Therefore this council has no alternative but to continue to provide the best services that we can deliver, although it may have to do so in a different way to the past.

Finally, if you agree or disagree with me, I hope you will understand that we are doing as much as we can within the resources available.

Happy Easter
Spring into Easter
at High Street, Broad Street, Island Road & Market Street

Barry's West End comes alive at Easter time...

AND THERE'S LOTS FOR CHILDREN TOO!

EASTER is a special time on High Street – it means the lighter evenings have arrived, the sunnier days, the bonnet parade and The GEM's Easter bunny competition.

There's never been a secret to the success of High Street, Barry: the traders know their customers personally, go that extra mile and are keen to thank them for their loyalty by putting on Christmas, Easter and Summer events.

This year is no different with the Easter bonnet and costume parade being held on Saturday, April 4, from 11am to 1pm. Mums and dads, and guardians, are all welcome to bring children along to take part.

The meeting point is the new building where Hyper Value use to be.

The age categories are up to three years old; four to six years old; seven to ten years old; and 11 to 13 years old.

There will be prizes at the end for the children, and there's Kl Parties Entertainment in Hubana afterwards free to all children (there will be an extra charge for face painting and refreshments).

The GEM is also running an Easter bunny competition to win Easter eggs:

Children simply have to track down the names of the Easter bunnies featured in shop windows on High Street. List as many names of the 20 rabbits as possible, put your name, address and telephone number alongside your list and hand it in to Jade boutique, or send it into the Glamorgan GEM at gemsales@tindlenews.co.uk.

The bunnies can be seen from this Thursday, March 26 until Tuesday, April 7.

Themed parties all the rage for Dr Bob

One of Dr Bob's amazing creations – Rapunzel's tower.

DR BOB'S Balloons is a High Street institution and internationally known for balloon sculpture and artistry.

Whether it's a wedding, christening, charity event or special occasion Bob Armstrong is able to make it unforgettable with his extravagant creations.

Bob, who had done a number of stints as chairman of High Street traders, explained: "There's been an increased demand for 'themed' events – the biggest is Frozen, for boys it's The Avengers and Doctor Who."

Bob can create whatever character you're after, Fireman Sam, Mister Tickle, Star Wars characters…

"People want things personalised too. We can put photos of people on balloons – that's very popular. We do 'bespoke' creations. People come to us and say they want something special, and we oblige and make sure it's within their budget."

Miss Holmes introduces the very special 'Grand Illusions'

ABOVE:
The high quality Grand Illusions paint range, inspired by the Nordic-French palette, is only available at limited outlets, including Miss Holmes on High Street.

STYLE is synonymous with 'Miss Holmes' which always has exclusive gifts and items that delight its customers.

The latest addition to the shop is a very special vintage paint range called Grand Illusions.

The owner of Miss Holmes Nicola explained: "Grand Illusions is a unique, easy to use matt paint inspired by the Nordic-French palette. There are 26 colours in all.

"It is sophisticated and self-priming with very good adhesion. The paints are eco-friendly and can be applied to most surfaces such as furniture, walls and floors. People are very keen on reviving old pieces of furniture – it's ideal for that."

Grand Illusions replicates the buttermilk paint of the 18th and 19th centuries, is water-based and made with earth pigments, chalk, clay and a very small amount of acrylic medium to bind it together.

For more on Grand Illusions pop in to Miss Holmes for a chat with the staff.

The boutique is a real Alladin's cave that beckons in those who love a browse. There is the Willow Tree range of figurines, home fragrances courtesy of Ashleigh Burwood, the bath and body products Nougat Naturals, watches, jewellery and distinctive gift cards.

Nicola's aim is that whether it is a man, woman, boy or girl, there's always a gift they can find to delight a loved-one. Miss Holmes succeeds in providing something different or luxurious without being over-priced.

'CREATIVE WALES' IS THE THEME AT ISLAND ROAD

A browse in Bespoke Jewellery Workshop will inspire you.

ISLAND ROAD, with Homemade Wales and Bespoke Jewellery Workshop is a haven of Welsh creativity and the perfect place to pick up that special gift.

Robert Linder of Bespoke Jewellery Workshop explained that people are keen on individual designs, something unique, rather than mass produced.

"I and my two designers and goldsmiths, Clare and Emma, are able to handmake one-off pieces of jewellery. People can come in for a consultation and we can bounce ideas back and forth and create something very special.

"Clients let us know what they want and we will make it."

Robert has been located on Island Road for two years – he also owns Brooklinde Jewellery by Design in High Street arcade in Cardiff.

People love popping in to the Barry workshop for a browse and chat with Robert about making that unforgettable piece of jewellery – perhaps a ring, necklace, band – that will delight and dazzle for a lifetime. A wedding? A special occasion? A gift that will never be forgotten? Platinum, gold, silver – it's your choice.

Next door on Island Road, Fay Blakeley continues the theme of Welsh creativity at Homemade Wales which stocks handcrafted gifts and homewares.

Fay explained: "There are two elements to the shop, everything is handcrafted by Welsh people or made in Wales. We are the only outlet in the area to have the products displayed."

Rather than stock mass-produced items that can be found in any multiple shop outlet, Fay was keen to select individually sourced pieces.

"I wanted to establish the shop as part of the community and benefit the Welsh economy."

Homemade Walescan be found on Facebook at: www.facebook.com/homemadewales.

Homemade Wales Handcrafted Welsh Gifts & Homeware is run by Fay Blakeley and items are either handcrafted in Wales or by Welsh people, benefitting the country's economy.

Affinity Wales may provide a solution to your problem

"Whether it is a concern about weight-loss, stress, smoking, anxiety, sexual dysfunction, worry or pain management, a person can be helped.

"We are able to tailor a treatment plan for clients. For some people it may be just three to five sessions. If something is deep-rooted it may take more."

Visitor gets 15 out of 15 to scoop Rotary prize!

WHEN Cowbridge Rotary Club held a competition, backed by The GEM, in advance of the RBS Six Nation, asking rugby fans to predict the results of the 15 games, it seemed likely that entrants would need to get 12 or 13 right to be in contention.

However, that theory fell apart when a hotel guest, staying at The Bear, became the only one out of 412 entries to get all 15 games correct!

Step forward Matt Brown, who lives in Northamptonshire and was visiting Cowbridge on the Friday of the first match (Wales v England).

A Cowbridge Rotary spokesman said: "Matt and Anna live in Northamptonshire and were visiting friends in Cowbridge on the weekend of the Wales v England match.

"They asked for their prize to be donated to a Cowbridge charity, and they know Roger Helliwell who is a volunteer at the Cowbridge Physic Garden, so they have donated their £100 prize to the Physic Garden Trust.

"There were 412 entries and the Rotary Club of Cowbridge is grateful to everyone who entered. We are also grateful to The GEM for publicising the competition, and for its support in distributing entry forms. The Bear Hotel kindly hosted a posting-box for entries".

The chairman of the Physic Garden Trust, Jo Homfray, said: "This was a really thoughtful gesture by Mr Brown, and it is much appreciated.

"The money will go towards maintaining the Physic Garden, and we will make good use of it."

After printing costs, The Rotary Club was able to put £235 into its charity account, while Matt Brown's prize money has been donated to the Physic Garden.

Ex-newsreader is the new Sheriff of Mid Glamorgan

TODAY (March 26) sees the inauguration of Mrs Jayne James of Pyle as High Sheriff of Mid Glamorgan at St John's Church, Newton, Porthcawl.

She will make her 'declaration' before the Lord Lieutenant, in the presence of Mr Justice Wyn Williams, former High Sheriffs, civic dignitaries, armed and uniformed services, family and friends.

Probably best-known as the face of BBC breakfast news, her broadcasting career spanned three decades. She presented news bulletins at BBC Wales for 27 years, before she decided to retire in 2012, to pursue other career ambitions.

She is now a partner in a Womenswear fashion retail shop, Loulou, based in the grounds of Pyle Garden Centre, which is family-owned. She also oversees the running of the Olive Tree restaurant based in the garden centre.

Mrs James has worked as a volunteer for various charities for more than 30 years, including Barnardo's, Save the Children, George Thomas Hospice, Sandville, and British Heart Foundation.

During her year as High Sheriff, she has decided to raise funds for Gofal, a mental health and well-being charity based in Bridgend.

Two events have been organised, a charity ball and a fashion show. Money raised in excess of £10,000 will open the Crystal Ball fund, for vulnerable people with mental health issues.

One of her plans for her year of office is to visit local schools to talk about the role of the High Sheriff and its historic links with the Magna Carta, and also find new entrants to qualify for the High Sheriff Youth Awards, a scheme which recognises and rewards special achievements of individuals and groups.

Women artists display creativity in exhibition

THE Women's Arts Association open art exhibition at Art Central, Barry, has more than 60 items on show.

Coun Lis Burnett, cabinet member for regeneration, said: "I would like to congratulate you all for continuing to provide women across the country with an opportunity to showcase their creative talent and for giving them a visual voice to celebrate women in Wales.

"This open exhibition allows everyone to take part, and this year has welcomed Bethan, a budding artist of only nine years, with her charming hand-painted, pink slippers."

Penelope Rose Cowley, the vice chair of Women's Arts Association, thanked the Vale Council for hosting this year's exhibition in such a "stunning space". Eve Hart, a Vale based artist officially declared the exhibition open.

The exhibition will continue until March 28 at Art Central Gallery, Barry Town Hall, King Square, and is open Monday to Saturday, 10am to 4pm.

Former Barry Comprehensive School students now studying at the Cardiff & Vale College returned to talk to current students.

Careers day at Barry school

RECENTLY, Barry Comprehensive School's main hall was filled with companies, businesses and organisations welcoming students to the annual careers fair.

Hundreds of students visited the stalls to find out about the opportunities in the workplace and in further education.

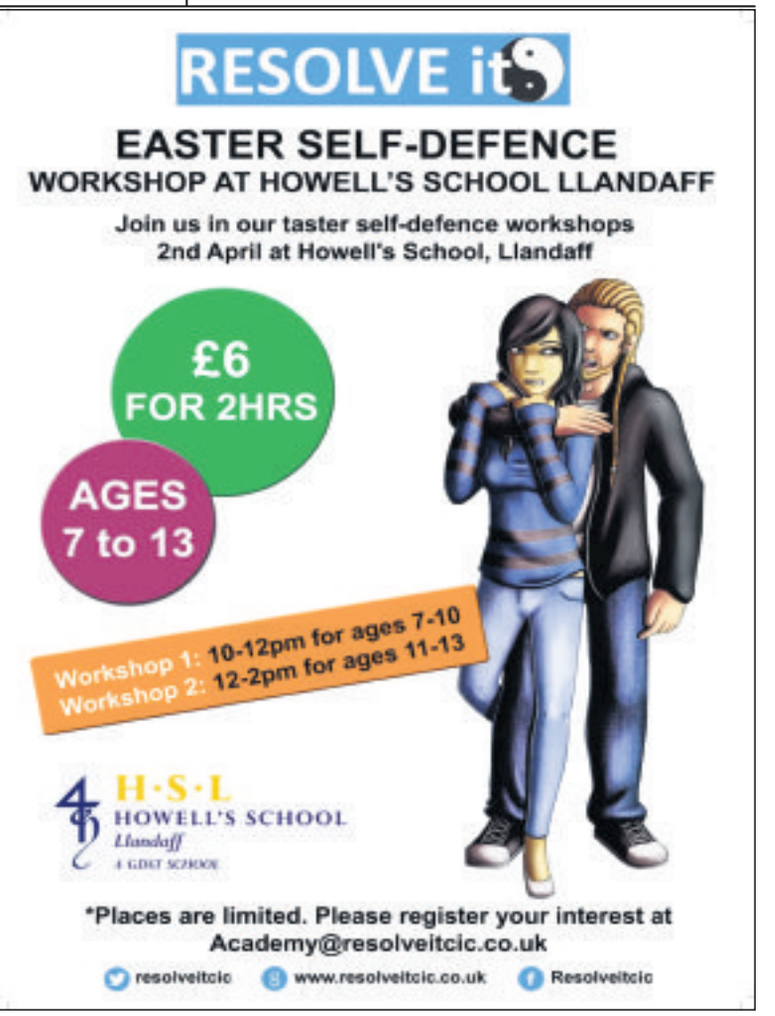
Business visitors ranged from the global to the local and included the Royal Navy, HSBC, Keepmoat, Dow Corning, CITB, British Telecom and Lafarge Tarmac. Other organisations included Vale Volunteer Bureau, ACT, RTPI and Cardiff and Vale UHB Dental Nursing.

Welsh Universities were also keen to let students know what they had to offer, with stands from Aberystwyth University, Cardiff University, Cardiff Metropolitan University, Swansea Metropolitan University and the University of Wales (Trinity) being very popular.

Cardiff and Vale College also provided information on their degree courses, including aircraft engineering.

The school is grateful to all the attendees for their time and commitment to showing students some of the huge range opportunities available to them.

Dental Nursing proved an interesting new career option for many students.



VALE MP's VIEWPOINT

'The young people know what matters in the Vale'

ON Monday, I welcomed a number of sixth form students from Bryn Hafren Comprehensive in Barry to Westminster, to discuss my role in Parliament.

I was delighted to welcome the group, studying for the Welsh Baccalaureate, to show them how Parliament runs on a day-to-day basis.

The students I welcomed are incredibly knowledgeable, motivated and want to shape their own future.

I am consistently impressed with how much they care about the future of Barry and the Vale – after all, students need good, well-paid jobs, housing and opportunities.

The most positive feedback I have had from local residents in regard to the regeneration of Barry Island has been from the next generation.

They can see the potential in the area, and how significant investment in the largest town in Wales can be a catalyst – I completely agree with them.

Meeting school pupils of all ages has been one of the most rewarding parts of my role as MP in the last five years. I have had schools from every area of the Vale visit Westminster, and I know that pupils have found it incredibly rewarding.

Vale MP Alun Cairns reports to GEM readers

I think it is so important to allow youngsters from an early age to learn about how elected representatives make decisions that have a direct impact on them.

On the subject of decisions that impact local pupils and parents and teachers, proposals are being digested for a major shake-up of schools in Barry.

I have met a large number of anxious parents who have raised a number of important points about whether the plans have been fully considered by local decision-makers.

Tonight, a public meeting is being held at the Ship Hotel in Barry to discuss school plans.

I am encouraging parents to come along and make the case to ensure that any changes to schools will ensure that the welfare of pupils, at such an important time in their lives, is the absolute priority.

We are now less than 50 days away from the general election, and Monday sees the dissolution of Parliament.

I will spend the next few weeks on the campaign trail, and will see many friendly faces that I have met in every community.

May I use this opportunity to thank all of the individuals, locally elected colleagues and communities for their support over the last five years.

'Why I say Barry is the better option' GEM reader

FOR those of your correspondents last week who seem to want to inflict more housing on Cowbridge, rather than Barry, I would offer the following facts, which would make the Barry option seem to be the better one.

Cowbridge does have a bypass, but thanks to the incompetence of the Glamorgan Planning Department at the beginning of the 1960s, all traffic travelling from the A48 to Llandow/Llantwit has to use either the main street through Cowbridge, or the narrow road through Llysworney.

Cowbridge has a bus service – every 30 minutes to either Cardiff or Bridgend – adult return fare Cowbridge to Cardiff £7 (First Group plc web site) for a 45 minute journey.

Cowbridge used to have a railway track until Dr Beeching's report scheduled it for closure (the last passenger train ran on Saturday, November 24 1951) and the rails were lifted in 1964. While the line of the old track can still be seen in parts between Cowbridge and Pontyclun where it joined the main Cardiff-Bridgend line someone went and built houses on the old station site.

Cowbridge gridlock for morning commuter traffic starts at Waterton Cross roundabout (Bridgend), Culverhouse Cross (Cardiff) or Brynsadler and Pendoylan (M4).

Cowbridge (still) hasn't got a Post Office – Barry has at least five.

Barry has 13 bus services listed for travel between Barry and Cardiff and Bridgend, or within Barry, and a choice of three railway stations (four if you count Barry Island) with a train service to Cardiff running every 15 minutes – adult return fare Cardiff to Barry £5 (National Rail Enquiries Journey Planner), 30-minute ride. So if you have a problem with Barry being "gridlocked", why not let 'the train take the strain'? Even Rhoose has a railway station.

As for the potential south Wales metro link? Cogan, Barry, Barry Island and Rhoose (Cardiff Airport) all get mentions; perhaps if they hadn't built the houses and fire station, they could have added Cowbridge via the old Cowbridge Railway track bed, rather than leaving it out altogether.

Unfortunately, resurrecting the old Cowbridge and Aberthaw railway route is not a viable proposition either, again due to house building. Perhaps we could persuade them to try a Crossrail type tunnel from The Tumble to Cowbridge? (I'm not holding my breath...)

By the way, there are still a couple of mounting blocks in Cowbridge to make it easier to get on your horse…

John Upstone, Llanblethian.

Patch leads the way to Pentyrch

GERAINT and his sheepdog Patch played host to five female walkers from the Penarth and District Ramblers at Pentyrch on an overcast but dry morning.

Setting off through fields containing new lambs, through Craig-y-Parc with its tall straight conifers partially obscuring the view over Canada Lake, they strode on to the outskirts of Creigiau.

Following the old disused railway track where wild garlic was peeping through and scarlet elf cup fungi decorated fallen branches, they reached lovely woodland at Ty'n y Coed.

Gradually climbing up to the trig point on Garth Hill, walking the ridgeway past Welsh Black cattle, they dropped steeply onto woodland tracks leading down to Gwaelod-y-Garth.

Muddy paths and wooden footbridges led them through Craig Rhiw'r Ceiliog to a wooden picnic bench for lunch and, descending through the woods, the turrets of Castell Coch were just visible as they reached the small hamlet of Georgetown.

Then, re-entering woodland and crossing the Nant Cwmllwydrew stream with its pretty falls, a boardwalk led them up through Coed y Bedw and crossing a field and the busy Heol Goch, a steep climb up the hillside led them back through houses to their start point.

Train first and then walks

A RELAXING train journey from Barry, Penarth and Cardiff was enjoyed by the 10 walkers who joined William for his latest adventure, the 15-mile trek along the eastern section of the long distance Rhymney Valley Ridgeway Walk.

Leaving Lisvane station and passing through the delightful Parc Cefn Onn, they climbed gradually up to the ridgeway before heading east through lovely old beech woods filled with the sound of birdsong.

Stopping for refreshments in Coed Coesau Whips, they noted that during World War Two, members of the Special Duties Auxiliary Unit manned the camouflaged secret wireless bunker that has been uncovered, before heading steeply downhill and across muddy fields on their journey to the ruined Ruperra Castle, built by Sir Thomas Morgan in 1626..

From Coed Craig Ruperra they descended steeply to Draethen and, passing the lovely old farmhouse of Rhyd-y-Gwern crossed the River Rhymney into Machen, before the long pull up through woodland to the highest point of the walk Mynydd Machen, where they paused for lunch in warm sunshine.

Then, descending past a massive spoil tip and through ancient beech and oak woods above the Sirhowy Valley, they followed the ridgeway back across Mynydd Y Grug Common towards Ystrad Mynach.

A narrow track led them into fields and, dropping down to Maesycwmmer and crossing the Rhymney Valley by means of the spectacular 16-arched viaduct, they made their way to Hengoed Station for the journey home.

On March 28, you are invited to join a rail ramble leaving Barry at 8.45am and Penarth at 8.47am to arrive at Cardiff Central in order to catch the 9.18am train to Pontyclun, followed by the 11-mile moderate linear walk back to Taff's Well for the journey home; contact William on 01446 747239.

To follow the group, log onto www.penarthramblers.wordpress.com Programmes and membership advice can be obtained from Pam on 029 2025 5102.

Funding boost for Communities First

THE future of the Vale Council-led anti-poverty programme Barry Communities First (above) has been secured up until April 2016, after just over half a million pounds in additional funding was announced by the Welsh Government.

The aim is to "improve the health, prosperity and learning" of residents in Buttrills, Cadoc, Castleland, Court and Gibbonsdown wards of Barry.

It has put together projects which include helping job seekers to find work (right), helping year-6 students with the transition to year-7, and helping people to lose weight.

SCOUT GROUPS IN NEED OF HELP

LAST weekend, the seven Scout groups in Penarth, Dinas Powys, Sully and Llandough joined together to try and recruit more adult volunteers.

Said Julian Jordan, District Commissioner: "Scouting is open to young people aged six to 25. We currently are growing faster then we have since the 1970s. Locally, we have over 500 young people meeting on a weekly basis.

"To keep offering this adventure we need more volunteers, from leaders and helpers on a weekly basis, to trustees and those who can support us on an ad hoc basis."

Contact info@penarthanddistrict.org.uk or 0330 330 1907 or find Penarth and District Scouts on Facebook or Twitter.

STAINED GLASS FESTIVAL

THE fourth stained glass window festival takes place at St Paul's Church, Pontyclun, on June 27-28.

Everyone is invited to take part by making a 'window' out of recycled material. It can be any size. It can be knitted, quilted, made of bubble wrap, pasta, plastic etc. Let your imagination take over.

Bring your finished window to St Paul's Church on Friday, June 26, between 2pm and 6pm, where it will be put in place ready for the start of the festival the following day. All proceeds from the festival will go to church funds.

CLEANING UP AND CLEARING OUT WASTE

YOUR letters columns have recently contained comments on two types of waste, animal and household.

Firstly, there have been letters from people objecting to horses defecating on the highway.

They should instead think about going out with a bucket and spade to collect what is excellent manure for rhubarb!

The second subject is more serious and concerns the so-called 'Civic Amenity' site at the old Llandow airfield.

I largely agree with the sentiments expressed by a correspondent in last week's issue.

The location is not well signposted – the access road is a series of potholes, as it has been for years, and the layout of the site itself leads to congestion as car owners struggle, either to heave their items to the height necessary to deposit them in the containers, or to drag them up the rickety steps.

I am 20 years older than Guy Howell Jones and without the kind intervention of one of the site staff, I would have had to take my rubbish back home.

May I suggest that the Vale Council think about bringing the standard of the site up to that found in neighbouring authorities?

That might even reduce fly-tipping.

Edgar Lloyd, Cowbridge.

COUNCIL'S FRUSTRATION OVER CEMETERY APPROACH

I AM writing, as the Vale Council's responsible cabinet member, in response to recent letters in The GEM about the use of land at Cemetery Approach in Barry.

I thought GEM readers may appreciate some clarity on where we are with the site's redevelopment into a community garden.

We are committed to redeveloping the site as a community garden, but the cost of doing this is considerable. We therefore cannot do this on our own.

Our plan had been to dedicate the public open space at Cemetery Approach as a Centenary Field. As well as being a fitting memorial for those who lost their lives in the First World War, we had hoped that this would allow us to access funding from the Armed Forces Community Covenant Grant Scheme, run by Fields in Trust and the Royal British Legion.

Unfortunately, despite submitting two very strong applications, we have not beensuccessfulcin gaining the funding that we need. We are now seeking to work in partnership with Barry Town Council to deliver the community garden together.

Both councils are keen to move forward with the project and to create a relaxing and pleasant space for local people, as well as visitors to the cemetery, to enjoy.

The obstacles that we have encountered so far have proved to be greatly frustrating.

However, this has only strengthened our resolve to deliver the open green space that local residents desire.

While talks with Barry Town Council are still at an early stage, I hope to soon be able to announce a new way forward for the site.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for visible and leisure services.

'Plaid says no to austerity budget'

IT was quite depressing to learn that the cash Tony Blair donated to 100 Labour constituencies has been accepted in the Vale.

Quickly we can see the result, with leaflets being delivered not by supporters, but by commercial organisations and newspaper adverts.

Presumably, the decline in people actually prepared to work on a voluntary basis for the party makes this necessary. It's interesting to learn that there are still Blair admirers in the Labour Party.

I'm proud that the Plaid campaign will be funded entirely from small donations from the people of the Vale.

Labour, under tragically weak leadership, have failed to exploit the Government's failures. They voted to support Tory spending plans for 2015. Then Labour MPs crept through the voting lobbies to support the Tory austerity charter for the next Parliament.

Plaid will not support an austerity budget – irrespective of whether it is the Blue Tories or the Red Tories that introduce it.

Nic Hodges, Barry
(Plaid Cymru councillor).

'Back open space plan for school'

PLANS are being considered to hand over some open space in Barry to a local school and local views are sought over the proposal.

The space in question is between Hannah Street, Court Road and Commercial Road and although always under the remit of education, it has been managed by the Vale parks service.

In recent years, the open space had been gated and the only access has been to local residents who live around the space. In a bid for the parks department to make savings, as part of the cuts programme, it is now intended to pass it over to Jenner Park Primary school.

The benefits of handing the open space over to Jenner School would mean increased opportunities for outdoor activities for these pupils and it would also be made more secure.

I hope everyone will back the proposal.

Richard Bertin, Barry.

Thank you, kind sirs!

I WOULD like to say 'thank you' to the gentleman who handed my handbag in to Morrisons on Saturday, February 28. Also to another gentleman who found my purse and handed it in to the police – again, many thanks to you both.

Jenner Park pupils enjoy 'bake-off'

JENNER PARK school children enjoyed a fun-packed day in between lessons. The school reported: "Pupils enjoyed baking in the classroom and Mr Morris judged the competition."

PAULA TAKES OVER AS MANAGER AT THE MARIE CURIE HOSPICE

FORMER Marie Curie Nurse Paula Elson, from Kenfig Hill, has been appointed as hospice manager of the charity's Cardiff and the Vale hospice and will help lead nurses, carers and other staff in providing specialist care to around 600 in-patients, 870 out-patients and 2,000 day care attendees every year.

After training at the West Glamorgan School of Nursing, she developed a keen interest in working with people living with a terminal illness. She took up a role as a palliative care bank nurse at Y Bythyn Newydd in the Princess of Wales Hospital, Bridgend, as well as becoming Sister of Ty Bryngwyn Hospice in Llanelli.

During this time, Paula also worked as a part-time Marie Curie nurse, providing care for people at home.

Eventually she went on to become community team leader with the St David's Foundation in Gwent, and also held the position of community team leader at the Ty Olwen specialist palliative care unit serving Swansea, Neath and Port Talbot.

Among her other career highlights was a seven year stint with the Royal College of Nursing, working with local health boards in Wales to develop clinical leaders, who has headed up the Marie Curie Cardiff and the Vale Hospice in Penarth for three months in an interim capacity, said: "I've always seen Marie Curie as epitomising fantastic palliative care, and I want the hospice to mirror this and continue providing great care for local people. I hope to strengthen and build on the foundations we already have here so we can continue to deliver the high quality care people need and deserve.

"Our job is to care for people with terminal illnesses and make a difference for them and their family at a time that they can't repeat, and I think we're really privileged to be a part of that. For me, coming into this role means I can influence things and make a difference for those people."

Andrew Wilson-Mouasher, divisional general manager for Marie Curie, said: "Paula brings a wealth of experience in nursing, specialist palliative care, nursing leadership and health service management, and I am thrilled to have her on board as hospice manager at the Cardiff and the Vale Hospice."

Paula was born in Maesteg and lives in Kenfig Hill with her partner, Chris.

Saints through to Cup semi-finals

SAINTS brushed aside Railway Wanderers in the Divisional Cup but needed extra time to do so, the final score 4-3.

Saints took the lead early after striker Darren Townsend beat the offside trap, rounded the keeper and slotted the ball into the empty net.

Railway equalised after a counter attack, soaking up Saints attacks and an early cross found the Railway winger to side foot home.

Barry were knocking on the door and rightfully took the lead again when David A Evans headed the ball home after a goal mouth scramble from a corner. At half-time the Saints were deservedly in the lead.

In the second half the Saints came flying out of the blocks and Darren Townsend added his second, scoring a half-volley from just inside the area.

Saints then fell asleep and allowed the Railway back into the game. A ball played down the line to the winger saw him square a pass across the goal for an easy tap in.

Railway earned a corner moments later and, with Saints failing to clear their lines, a deflected shot fell to the Railway striker to sweep home.

With 15 minutes to go the Railway were reduced to 10 men after the midfielder verbally abused the referee.

Saints pushed for the winner and were awarded a penalty. Michael Evans stepped up but his spot kick was saved.

The first half of extra time flew by with both teams barely having chances on goal, but the second half was all Saints and after dominating the game they grabbed the winning goal after a sweeping move.

The ball fell to Nathan Williams who played a high ball around the corner to Townsend. The keeper came rushing out but Townsend headed the ball past the stranded keeper to send the Saints into the semi-finals.

Spring COWBRIDGE Feature

Spring is the ideal time to see what Cowbridge has to offer

by PHILIP IRWIN

Fun Foundations' Gold Snack Award

FUN FOUNDATIONS Day Nursery is celebrating the Gold Healthy Snack Award Accreditation!

The initiative was introduced to improve diets of the children attending nursery and consists of four areas namely:

- An individualised snack policy.
- The provision of healthy snacks including offering a wide selection of fruit.
- A positive environment – including children sitting at tables with staff eating same snacks.
- Good hygiene practice, with all children and staff washing hands prior to meal times.

The nursery has also been recognised as providing activities that incorporate play and food, such as growing vegetables.

THE arrival of spring brings a sense of anticipation to just about everyone – it is a time of year when the dark winter days seem much further away and suddenly getting out and about seems much more attractive.

And right at the top of a list of places to visit in the area has to be Cowbridge, with its very own mix of history, distinctive shops and cafe society.

It's not a town where massive developments take place, but there is a constant rota of change and adjustment, whether that be the work that civic societies do around the town to enhance it, or on the retail front where new companies decide that the town is the place to do business.

There was good news this week when the Vale Council decided to back a scheme to retain the town's cattle market A number of funding hurdles have to be cleared, but around the existing site could be a new market hall, housing a number of small shops, a community café and a covered open space.

The cattle market, of course, is now a slight misnomer, as it has been confined to sheep for a number of years, but it is still a feature of every Tuesday morning in the town, as farmers bring their livestock to market.

The market plan is a development that the Cowbridge Chamber of Trade is delighted with. The chairman, Alun John, told The GEM that the town had enjoyed a busy Christmas – perhaps because customers preferred the relaxed atmosphere to the hustle and bustle of a city shopping environment – and now traders were looking forward to the traditional increase in retail activity during March, April and May.

Cowbridge's compact layout, with small side streets leading to unexpected courtyards and alleyways, means that something new is often just around the corner.

What's more, the town has such a wide range of places where you can stop and take a break, that it is easy to do things at your own pace and stay relaxed.

Whether you want a coffee, a snack, a pub meal, or haute cuisine, there is something for everyone in Cowbridge.

One relative newcomer to the town is Beagles, in the Old Mason's Yard, which straddles the river, just along from the town hall.

Owned and managed by Claire Donovan, the store is approaching its first birthday in the town, and she is looking forward to events, such as the May Fayre (on May 4) and later in the month, The Cowbridge Food and Drink Festival (May 24-25).

Hopkins Law opens up to the community

HOPKINS LAW is opening its doors to small businesses and community groups by offering their meeting room to such enterprises for free.

Liane Farthing, director, said: "We appreciate that not everybody wants to conduct their meetings in the local coffee shop and that sometimes a quiet space is what's needed – which is where our meeting room can be invaluable."

The offer of a meeting room follows Hopkins Law's initiative to offer free Wills and Probate advice in a clinic style format, which has proved to be a winning formula with local residents.

The meeting room is free to anybody who wants to use it – just phone the office on 01446 774151 and find out when it's available.

TOWN CATERS FOR ALL YOUR NEEDS

Claire's business ethos is to offer a mix of product that is not found in the chain stores, and also local produce, and she is particularly passionate about the need to support local suppliers.

Offering an extremely eclectic mix of items under the overall banner of 'country store' ,Beagles is definitely a local business that offers the casual browser plenty of choice - allied to personal service.

A while ago, the adjoining cafe became available, and Claire snapped it up to open Cowbridge's first creperie – offering both savoury and sweet pancakes – and the initial reaction to this new venture has been extremely encouraging.

Claire said: "You can have your own crepe cooked in front of you to your own specification. It's also a great way of feeding a family on a day out!"

Also in the Old Mason's Yard is La Mercerie, owned by Jean Tait, an Aladdin's Cave for any knitting enthusiast, with a huge range of yarns, buttons and haberdashery.

Although it looks at first glance to be a typical local shop, Jean also serves a wider community, with customers coming from Bridgend, Neath and Swansea because of the depth of stock.

Knitting groups have sprung up, and two meet in the shop on a Wednesday, while Thursday is "troubleshooter day" when knitters can pop in for advice from an expert on any tricky project that they are working on.

Examples of work by some of the knitting group members are on sale in the shop, and Jean also sells knitting patterns, originally handed in to the nearby Red Cross shop, on behalf of the charity.

Another relative newcomer to the town is Sally Stephenson at the Pencil Case, Eastgate. Sally spotted a gap in the market and has set out to make the shop a must for stationery products for all ages, with an emphasis on the younger market.

She insists that The Pencil case is another example of a local shop that can undercut the big city stores on popular product lines, while offering popular brands to its customers.

Since opening last year, she has extended the product range, adding more school uniforms, making it "a one-stop shop for school age children".

See what Cowbridge can offer...

Amy Theophilus of Fun Foundations.

An addition to the range has been an 'age birthday card' stand, offering cards from ages one to 100, inclusive. Whether you need a 37-year-old or an 88-year-old, sally can supply one!

Jon Ian, specialising in shoes and fashion accessories, is owned by Esther Hitchcock, and is far from a newcomer to the town, having been here for 24 years. Add to that the 43 years of trading in the Morgan Arcade in Cardiff, and you have a considerable retail experience to draw on.

Esther said: "The start of a new season is always exciting, and this year has made a very successful beginning."

As usual, Esther has been to Milan to source the latest Italian fashions and she explained: "This year, the colours are really beautiful, and some of the dual colour combinations are really striking.

"After last year's warm summer, people are champing at the bit to get out and buy for a new season."

Another new arrival in Cowbridge is a Welsh manufacturer, Broadleaf, who have grown to be one of the UK's leading real wood specialists.

Dave Shewring is the manager of their Eastgate premises, and is delighted to show off the company's range of beautiful wood floors, doors and joinery – all made in Wales and with an enviable reputation for quality, value and trend leading design.

After a long search for suitable premises, the company finally moved into Cowbridge in October last year.

Vanessa Garrett, one of Broadleaf's founders, told The GEM: "With its reputation for quality independent shopping and easy access from both Cardiff and the Vale, Cowbridge is an ideal location for our flagship Welsh showroom and we are thrilled to finally be here!"

Norma Davies Opticians opened in December in the town, and can be found in the Old Mason's Yard. Charlotte Lloyd-Davies is the manager and she explained that the company was on the move to the east, as its existing branches are in Llandysul, Carmarthen and Morriston.

She said: "Cowbridge is an attractive town, and it puts us in the market place for people who buy our products and use our services.

"The company has been in business for 40 years, and we offer a full product range, including an extensive range of designer frames, contact lenses, and high quality clinical care."

Another trader who has found Cowbridge a great place to do business is Amy Theophilus, who runs Fun Foundations Nursery.

Amy said: "I used to teach in Y Bont Faen Primary School, and about five years ago I noticed a gap in the market for a nursery".

Sally Stephenson of The Pencil Case.

It took a year to find suitable premises, but now the business is well established. For Amy, Cowbridge is a perfect town for families. Many of her customers moved to the town for just that reason, and they find it an ideal place to relax after dropping off or picking up their offspring.

Amy added: "It's ideal for the children, with parks, playgrounds and the library as well".

Finally, it was only last week that the latest new shop opened in the town, and behind the smart frontage of Emmaus lies a remarkable story.

THINKING our way to a better future?

We live in a world where there is an epidemic of low self-esteem. It affects almost every aspect of our lives, from how we think about ourselves to the way we think about or react to life situations.

Solution-focused therapy believes that it's not external events that have the most profound effect on our self-esteem, but how we view our own life and life's events. Ultimately, it's what we believe inside that guides our choices and decisions.

As Viktor Frankl (1905 – 1997), psychiatrist and Holocaust-survivor famously said in his book Man's Search for Meaning: 'Everything can be taken from a man but one thing; the last of the human freedoms – to choose one's attitude in any given set of circumstances, to choose one's own way.'

The town to visit...

NO MATTER WHAT TIME OF THE YEAR!

The charity is well established in Europe, and tackles homelessness by opening houses where people get back on their feet by working together for the charity.

Known as companions, they use the experience to get back into the job market and start a new life.

There are many Emmaus houses in Europe, and there are now 23 in England (Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall is a patron), but the Welsh branch of Emmaus is opening its first (in Bridgend) later this year.

Funds raised by the charity go to meet running costs of the companion houses.

The Cowbridge shop, which looks extremely classy, was opened by the Mayor of Cowbridge with Llanblethian, Coun Peter Knapp.

Tom Clarke is the director for Emmaus South Wales and he said: "We are delighted to be making Cowbridge part of the Emmaus story.

"Later this year, we will open our first house in Wales and take in 23 companions. Emmaus has always been an organisation that is closely connected to the community, and we welcome any people in the Vale who would like to volunteer in our new Cowbridge shop."

The joint shop managers, Teresa Wood and Jeane Wright, told The GEM that they had enjoyed an "excellent opening weekend", and had received a "warm welcome" from townspeople in Cowbridge.

Bowls season wrapped up with finals weekend...

THE Sully indoor bowls season is coming to an end, culminating in the in-house competitions taking place this weekend, with all ladies and men's finals being held over Saturday and Sunday, March 28-29 at 10am.

The main events are the singles finals which are being competed for in the ladies by June Best and Carol Willmot, and the men's is between world no.12 Jason Greenslade and the new Welsh international Martin Clark, which is a repeat of last years brilliant final won by Clarke. There are two sessions on Saturday, 10am and 2pm, with pairs, triples and rinks, and Sunday will kick off in the morning session with two rinks finals followed at 2pm by three singles finals.

The finals will close with a pairs game between Graham Cogbill/Dick Cowling and Martin Clarke/Matthew Woodcock, ending a guaranteed weekend bonanza of bowls.

Supporters are welcome with bar and food facilities available on both days. FP

CLUB HOLDS AN OPEN DAY

MURCH Bowling Club members are delighted to be celebrating their 25th anniversary this year and founder members are wondering where the years went.

Over the years the club members have enjoyed many hours playing bowls both at home, at clubs in Wales, England, Scotland, and even as far afield as Canada and South Africa.

They have also had hours of fun at our social events and continue to do so.

The club has several events planned for our celebrations this year, including a special dinner in June.

We would like to extend an invitation to anyone thinking of trying their hand at outdoor bowls to join us on open day on April 18 at 2pm; overshoes and bowls will be provided.

You will meet some of our existing members who would be happy to discuss with you the merits of the game.

It would also give you a chance to enjoy our excellent facilities.

Bowling is a fun, healthy, friendly pass time which can be played and enjoyed by all ages.

We are situated at the end of Sunnycroft Lane in Dinas Powys.

Our ladies are also having a coffee morning in our club house on April 11, from 10am to 12.30pm, including bric a brac, nearly new, cake stall, raffle etc.

If you would like more information please contact Roger Mauchline (vice president) on 02920 513459, Judy Fudge (president) on 02920 515493 or Eileen Carryer (secretary) on 02920 515568. EC

Skaters' sponsored event plenty of fun!

GLAMORGAN Artistic Roller Skating Club skaters recently participated in the hour-long, non-stop sponsored pyjama skate to help raise money for the club.

All the skaters had a great night taking part in various games and activities, including relay races, musical statues, follow the leader and the club dances - Gangman Style, 5678 and the big favourite Superman.

All received a certificate to show they had completed the event, and over £300 was raised by the skaters which was a fantastic result!

The coaches would like to thank the parents for all their help and support without such great members and their families the club would not be such fun to attend and also a big thank you to all the skaters for making it such a great evening.

If anyone is interested in joining, and you are between the ages of 5 - 75, please see our Facebook page, Glamorgan Artistic Roller Skating Club, or our website, Glamorgan-artistic-webs.com.

You can also pop into our Tuesday session, held at Colcot sports hall, Barry, between 6pm-8pm to see what we are all about! AG

Student Hector's first winner was Always A Chance!

OXFORD Brookes University student Hector Worsley chalked up his first winner on the Jonathan Tudor-trained ex-Irish gelding Always A Chance at the North Ledbury Hunt Point-To-Point held on Hereford Racecourse on Sunday.

Hector's mount won division two of the maiden race and is owned by his mother, former MFH Georgie Howell. Always A Chance unseated Hector at the recent Brecon meeting but made amends in fine style.

An eight-year-old bay gelding, Always A Chance was former rider Jonathan Tudor's fifth winner of the season.

ANDREW'S 1-2

Bridgend's Andrew Leyshon saddled the winner and the second in the restricted race at the Wilton Hunt Point-To-Point Steeplechases at Milborne St Andrew last Saturday.

His six-year-old bay gelding Fine Resolve, ridden by Matthew Barber, finished ahead of his Llangeinor Hunt stable companion eight-year-old bay gelding Distant Sound partnered by Evan David.

Barber also won the open maiden race on Debbie Faulkner's Hellesbells. Charlotte Prichard took the ladies' open race on the odds-on favourite Minella Fifty.

WINS FOR EVAN AND TIM AT CHEPSTOW

Vale trainers Evan Williams and Tim Vaughan both had winners at Chepstow Racecourse last Thursday.

Evan was successful with Forgivienne, which won the three mile handicap hurdle under Adam Wedge, and Tim's recent winner Tanit River, ridden by Alan Johns, took the two mile handicap hurdle.

Evan, who had taken the opener at Warwick 24 hours earlier with King's Odyssey, made it a cross the cards double when his Armchair Theatre, ridden by Connor Ring, won the bumper at Ludlow where he is the leading trainer.

King's Odyssey was ridden by stable jockey Paul Moloney. BRIAN LEE

A BUSY YEAR FOR MEMBERS OF THE BARRY YACHT CLUB

IN his report to Barry Yacht Club's recent annual general meeting, the sailing secretary, Brian Dotchon, reviewed the sailing activities during 2014.

The weather during the season was somewhat mixed. There were many very good sailing days but no long settled spell to encourage extensive cruising. The good days were very good with clear skies and hours of sunshine but there was often more wind than required.

Brian thanked the strong support received from many members in this his first year as sailing secretary and this made the task of organising the racing activities much easier. The cruising events were in the very capable hands of Ray Brown, the cruiser class captain.

Dealing firstly with the club racing programme Brian reported that the season got off to a great start with the Bristol Channel Race for sailing pilot cutters.

The small fleet raced down to a buoy off Illfracombe before returning to Barry via a buoy off the Gower. Following a lunch at the club three of the cutters then raced down to Swansea. The cutters provided a fine spectacle in the pleasant weather over this weekend.

The points race series was very successful with nine of the scheduled 11 races completed. The two cancelled races were both points races and these succumbed respectively to an absence of competitors and extreme weather.

All of the Trophy Races were held although the Kindly Light Race had no finishers. It had been intended to set up a personal handicap system to provide a separate series of results, giving the less experienced helmsmen a better chance of success.

This was to run parallel with the normal seasonal points series. This proved impossible but with the assistance of the handicapper, Nick Hill, it is hoped that success will be achieved in 2015.

The trophies for the 2014 season were either awarded immediately after the event or at the annual dinner.

The winners were as follows:

Sam Davies Race - Dolly Kedge, Jeff Davis; Regatta 1st Tomahawk, Martin Rudkin; 2nd Sunny Lyn, Martin Wyatt; 3rd Kiskadee, Don Merrifield.

RNLI Pennant Race - Shadow, Simon Morgan (sailed by Steve Sutton); Holms Race - Sally Loper, Brian Dotchon; Highlight Race, Pepper, Bill Hogg (Porlock Weir SC); Summer Points Series - 1st Shadow, Simon Morgan (sailed by Steve Sutton); 2nd Sally Loper, Brian Dotchon; 3rd Dolly Kedge, Jeff Davis.

A total of 20 different boats entered one or more of the points series races which is a significant increase on 2013.

A total of 12 started the Regatta race and 15 Barry boats started the Highlight Race where there were seven visiting boats. However, the average turnout remained more or less the same as the previous year at 6.4 boats. The Old Seadogs Race had five entries and the Top Dog is Lyn Reeve.

DODGEMS!

The Highlight Race was, as its name suggests and for various reasons, the highlight of the racing season. The very encouraging turnout of 22 boats was set a challenging course by the OOD Justin Taylor.

Difficulties existed for both the experienced and not so experienced racers. There were many marks to round with relatively short intervening legs and this led to several collisions both with marks and with other competitors.

It is rumoured that during the presentation of prizes after the race, the Commodore's Lady, Wendy Webb, was heard to mention something about "dodgems". However, it must be said that everyone seems to have thoroughly enjoyed the experience and no-one suffered any serious damage.

Brian recorded returning with a very red face after managing to hit the Lavernock Spit buoy hard enough to instigate an insurance claim. Justin was congratulated for his efforts in setting an unusual challenge.

His team of race officials gave him excellent support and the club itself was certainly buzzing after the race.

Brian then turned to the cruising activities of club members and indicated that they had cruised very considerable distances during 2014.

Roger Lloyd in Katy Dee cruised the English Channel as far as Fecamp in the east and then back again via Cherbourg, the Channel Islands, northern Brittany and the Scillies. Roger was singlehanded for all but the outgoing passage to Cherbourg and for short periods inside the Rance Barrage and at the Scillies.

In her inimitable style Cynthia Norman in Down Homer sailed singlehanded from Milford up the Irish Sea to the west coast of Scotland before visiting the Orkneys and Shetlands on her way to Norway.

She set off mid May and spent five weeks in Norway with glorious weather before returning by more or less the same route to Milford at the end of September.

CORINTH CANAL

Jim Barton in Tresillion continues to cruise the eastern Mediterranean and this year traversed the Corinth Canal after leaving his winter quarters near Athens.

He then cruised the Gulf of Corinth and visited a number of ports and Corfu before laying up at Preveza on the Greek mainland. He covered a total of 750 nautical miles this year which is somewhat less than his usual total.

The club treasurer, Howard Metcalfe, purchased a splendid new power boat, Breaksea, early in the summer. This was built at Aalst in Belgium and he motored it back to its base in Cardiff in June.

He visited Hellevotslues in Holland, Ramsgate, Portland, Dartmouth and Newlyn on the way, covering a total of 670 nautical miles.

Owen and Jan Davies in Shiraz sailed to the South Coast of England visiting Falmouth and other ports before crossing to northern France and back via the Channel Islands.

Neil Burton and Penny Arnold in Peggy visited a number of Bristol Channel ports when going to and from Falmouth, Helford and the Scillies. They were accompanied by a number of family members at different times during this cruise. Clive Spierling in Senara made his usual return passage to Fowey and, with Val, visited Falmouth and various other ports during the summer.

Ian Harris sold Sulis in the early summer and, after much delay caused by poor weather, delivered the boat to Cork in southern Ireland for the new owner.

Nick Koops and his crew in Siglo left Barry early in the season and cruised down the north Cornish coast before crossing the English Channel to Camaret in the Brest estuary. They then proceeded south and visited a number of ports and off-lying islands in Biscay before reaching the Dordogne estuary. Nick was joined by Sue before entering the Canal Du Midi at Bordeaux. They then followed the canal down to the Mediterranean where the boat is presently wintering. Nick and Sue entered a log of their trip for consideration for the annual cruising award, the Lord Cope Cup. Several other members also submitted entries but their log was considered the best and they received the trophy.

Peter Stoker in Verity sailed from Barry in late May and travelled along the English Channel and ultimately to St Katharine's Dock, London and back. Peter was singlehanded for most of this trip but was joined by his son Simon for short periods.

Peter encountered the usual variety of British summer weather conditions and returned home by train on several occasions. The boat eventually returned to Barry at the beginning of September after covering more than 1,200 miles and visiting a total of 33 different ports and anchorages. This was considered to be an outstanding achievement and Peter was awarded the Seafarer Trophy for seamanship.

A number of other boats cruised to ports outside the Bristol Channel and these included Rob Curtis in Twelfth Night to Padstow and Dale, Nick Phillips in Merlin as far as Fishguard, Derek Irish in Mist and Colin Brooks in Magic to Milford Haven. Many members cruised to ports within the Channel for holidays and in order to attend the Bristol Channel Yachting Association (BCYA) rallies and various festivals.

The first of the cruises in company arranged by Ray Brown was to Woody Bay. Regrettably only four boats participated and this may have been due to the overcast conditions at the scheduled start time. However, the weather quickly improved and they had some splendid sailing in relatively light conditions under blue skies. Only Mike Radford in Lesmar reached the objective but everyone enjoyed a wonderful day afloat.

The cruises to the BCYA events at Cardiff Bay and Watchet were well attended. The entertainment was very good and was appreciated by all who joined the fleets. The cruise to Portishead became, instead, a cruise to Bristol Docks which was attended by several boats and was very enjoyable. The usual trip to Bristol in November was also well attended.

Arrangements for the 2015 racing programme are in hand and it will follow the usual format of trophy and points races. Several owners have requested a long distance overnight race and this will be included.

Ray Brown will again be organising a series of cruises in company for the coming summer and it is hoped that even more boats will participate. In addition to the usual cruise destinations it is hoped to arrange a visit to Minehead.

Brian's report indicated that 2014 had been very successful season for Barry Yacht Club with a good balance between racing and cruising activities.

If you would like further details about the club please phone 01446 735511 (with answerphone) or see our website www.barryyachtclub.co.uk.

The heat is on at Llandow Kart Club!

ALTHOUGH the weather was a little on the wintry side, action at round two of Llandow Kart Club's 2015 championship kept everyone warm as a large entry produced exciting racing without a single red flag or unnecessary delay.

Numbers were given a healthy boost thanks to the inclusion of both the NKRA classes and smattering of visiting drivers getting experience of the South Wales Karting Centre circuit, with a first-ever grid of Junior X30s and massed Bambinos both notable inclusions in the line-up.

The finals proved to be some of the most exciting for a long time, with the action given the added intrigue of an ever-evolving surface that saw the advantage swing back and forth between wet and slick-shod runners as each race took to the track.

No fewer than 15 Bambinos took to the track, including Llandow stalwarts Nathan Browning and Ella Stevens. Both gave a good account of themselves, but could do nothing to deny Chance Bennett a clean sweep of fastest times.

Stevens ended the day in second spot, ahead of Alfie Briggs and Brandon Carr, with Browning edging Oliver Wright for fifth. Cameron Crockett and Ryley Price, who both appeared at Llandow in February, were eighth and ninth respectively.

The Cadet Honda entry also took a return to the sort of numbers seen in recent seasons, with 22 runners. February runner-up Alex Lloyd took first blood with victory in heat one, before Kieron Jermey and last month's outright winner, Oliver Clarke staked their claim in heats two and three.

Clarke again came out on top in the main event, edging Lloyd by 0.120s to reprise their February battle. Guy Cunnington came through to complete the podium, ahead of Henry Laws and Jermey, but another couple of laps could have turned the result on its head with slick-shod sixth-placed driver Oliver Bearman clearly faster than those ahead of him as the track dried.

While the Honda entry would have been enough to warrant the Cadet categories being split, 14 IAME runners merited track time of their own – and were equally generous when it came to sharing race wins.

Dexter Patterson got the ball rolling in heat one, before Albert Carter and Taylor Barnard came good in the remaining qualifiers. The final, however, again came down to tyre choice and saw Patterson return to the fore, pulling out a decisive 6.5secs cushion as wets proved to be the answer.

The closely-matched group of Brad Kenneally, Carter, Llandow regular Shay Keough and Barnard – who were covered by 0.2secs – battled over the remaining podium positions.

By contrast, the Junior Honda class belonged to one driver all day, with Ben Cutler sweeping the meeting despite the best efforts of Alex Wilkins and novice Finley Green.

The first-ever event for the X30 class saw three runners join the Junior TKM regulars to push another grid into double figures, and saw Alfie Brown claim two heat wins before adding the final for good measure. Philip Hanson denied Brown a clean sweep by taking victory in heat three, while Callum Bradshaw was always in the mix.

The TKM runners shared their heat wins between Hugo Holmes, Lewis Griffiths and Louis Beaven, before Ryan Edwards trumped them all in the main event, heading Holmes and February winner Alex Rees on the podium.

With Junior Rotax still absent from the running order, the younger half of the programme was completed by the visiting Junior Blues and, despite being a little slimmer in number than previous years, the racing still proved competitive. It also appeared to be going the way of Jake Calvert after he claimed all three heats, but the final was another matter, as a the frontrunner's choice of slicks proved to be the wrong one.

With the top two finishers being disqualified for technical infringements, the honours eventually went the way of Thomas Massarella, with Calvert a distant second and Lee Chamberlain completing the podium.

A changing of the guard has been creeping up on Senior Honda for some time, but was finally confirmed this weekend as the new wave of drivers dominated. Monty Gorringe and Kristian Prosser claimed the heat wins, and the former's superior haul was confirmed in the final as he narrowly held the upper hand over his rival, although the pair remained separated by just half a second at the chequered flag.

Tom Ford and Patrick Hill, who have followed Gorringe and Prosser into the senior ranks in past year, finished third and fourth, while Roberto Nardone and Nigel Vickery did their bit to uphold 'senior' honour from a comfortable distance.

Senior Rotax also saw a former junior champion making his mark, with Rob Ellis leading from the front in each of the day's four races. Sam Morgan, Scott Rose and Dilip Singh took it in turns to give chase through the heats, before Morgan returned to P2 to give Ellis his closest battle of the day in the main event. Gareth Taylor edged Singh for the final podium spot.

The Rotax field was joined by three TKM Extreme entries, with Nicholas Rees only denied a clean sweep by problems in heat three. Callum Johns picked up the pieces on that occasion and later claimed second spot in the final, ahead of Alex Lewis.

Formula Blue guested amongst the senior classes, with a number of familiar faces returning for their annual assault on the Llandow circuit. Chris Derrick and Ian Branfield shared the heat wins, before the latter equalled their tallies at two apiece, by coming out on top in the final. It may have been a different story had tyre choice not again been crucial, with Matthew Parr and Kevin Ford completing the podium and Derrick only coming home in eighth spot.

Round three of the Llandow Kart Club championship will take place at South Wales Karting Centre on Sunday, April 19.

Mission accomplished as season ends for Penarth hockey team

BOTH Penarth Hockey Club sides achieved their end-of-season goals by taking victory on the final weekend of the 2014-15 Davis Wood hockey league season.

CIRENCESTER 4 PENARTH 6

Penarth's 1st XI made the long trip across the border to Cirencester for the final game of their season, determined to put behind the disappointment of the previous week behind them and finish on a positive note.

Fourth place in a closely-contested De Cymru & The Marches 1 was at stake for the Bears, with a victory required to ensure that the goal could be achieved without again relying on results elsewhere.

With glorious sunshine overhead, however, it was the home side that dominated proceedings in the first half as Penarth struggled, both literally and figuratively, to find their feet.

Cirencester attacked with fluidity and were soon 3-0 up thanks to the combination of good build-up play and poor Penarth marking, but the visitors gradually got a toehold, and eventually hit back through a Chris Baker brace to make the score 3-2 at halftime.

As Warren Gatland had stirred his team into life earlier in the day, so outgoing skipper Mark Thomas (and others) roused the Penarth team after the break.

With Baker again the inspiration, the Vale side launched a spirited second half comeback, with three further strikes from the wand of the midfield magician being complemented by a great poacher's goal for the impressive Tom Parkinson to make the final score 6-4 in Penarth's favour.

With their closest rivals in a division where fourth to relegation candidate 11th were eventually covered by just nine points both winning over the weekend, victory for Penarth provided a fitting end to a battling season.

PENARTH 'A' 5 BRIDGEND 'B' 0

With their rivals for fifth place in De Cymru 2 just a couple of points behind, the 2nd XI knew that only a win would do if they were to accomplish their aim of topping the 'division within a division' behind the runaway leading quartet.

Bridgend may have occupied a lowly position in the table, but had already proved to be no pushover in the reverse fixture, which Penarth edged 2-1 in Pencoed, and continued to provide tenacious opposition despite starting the game with only 10 men.

Stern defence thwarted Penarth's early efforts, but the Vale side finally made a breakthrough as the visitors' missing man emerged from the car park.

Typically, it was veteran forward Dave Watkins who provided the valuable strike, exerting enough spin on the ball to ensure it crossed the line after striking the inside of the far post and, riding the home side's increasing momentum, turned provider just minutes later as he supplied fellow 'old hand' Derek Wooding with the opportunity to make it 2-0.

The early cushion, however, appeared too comfortable for Penarth, as they seemed to sit back on their lead for the remainder of the half, allowing Bridgend to get into the game.

With pressure switching to the home end, Penarth were grateful for a couple of saves from goalkeeper Jason Harris that preserved the advantage to the interval.

Despite being reminded that, based on recent performances, two goals would not be enough to guarantee victory, Penarth started the second half sluggishly, despite the best efforts of Rob Harrison and Dave Thomas to get play flowing forward, and had to rely on the defence to keep Bridgend at bay in the opening minutes of the second period.

The visitors again earned a string of penalty corners, only to be denied by the running of Graeme Jones and Paul Roberts, while remaining defensive combinations of Richard Bromily, Ian Smith, Craig Llewellyn, Zbig Sobiersieski and Nick Pratt – and some determined tracking back from Paul Thomas – rebuffed any attacks from open play.

The score remained 2-0 into the final quarter of the game, but the return of Penarth's preferred passing game finally wore the visitors down, with Davesh Patel feeding Watkins for his second of the game and then Harrison providing the finest of touches to make it 4-0.

With James Davies having provided an alternative outlet down the left, there was still time for the Penarth to add a final flourish to their season, with Watkins fittingly completing his hat-trick in the closing minutes.

With their rivals managing only a single point between them from their respective fixtures, the result ultimately proved academic, as the Vale side secured fifth spot by a comfortable four points, but victory ensured that the post-match end-of-season curry – provided by consummate all-rounder Thomas P - tasted all the sweeter!

With no league fixtures until the resumption of hostilities in September, there will be more than a few players at a loose end in the coming weekends, but the club will once again be in veterans' XI action through the summer, building up to the inauguration of its new home pitch at Stanwell School later in the year.

Penarth Hockey Club always welcomes new, old and returning players, umpires, supporters, friends and helpers regardless of age and ability.

Training takes place on the artificial turf at Barry Sport Centre every Wednesday, with the juniors in action between 6-7pm and seniors between 7-8pm.

Baker's heroics sees Llantwit reach final!

LLANTWIT MAJOR'S Year 10 boy's football team have made it through to the final of the Cardiff and Vale Cup final for the second year running after beating Plasmawr 4-3 on penalties.

It was an outstanding effort by the entire team to overcome their rivals who they have lost to before, including in last year's final of the same cup.

Llantwit started the brighter of the two sides and created a number of early chances but were unable to get that all important goal. Plasmawr then grew in confidence and started to put pressure on Llantwit's defence, but they held firm.

Midway through the second half Plasmawr scored with a precise free kick to lead 1-0 but this only spurred Llantwit on to keep pressing in search of an equaliser.

That equaliser came when substitute Liam Butcher popped up unmarked in the box to lay a perfectly weighted pass to striker Angus Mitchell, who buried his shot in the bottom right hand corner.

With eight minutes remaining Llantwit's defence and midfield again held firm to see the game into penalties.

Five penalty takers bravely stepped forward to take a penalty but not all five were needed.

Joe Baker then made an excellent save low to his left which gave Llantwit their first glimpse of the final. Luke Beattie scored next with a very well placed shot and Plasmawr also scored to make the score 3-2.

Joe Baker then stepped up to the penalty spot and kept our 100 per cent scoring record alive - but his heroics were not over yet!

He then returned to the goal and saved Plasmawr's fourth penalty, resulting in Llantwit's progress to the final, winning 4-2 on penalties.

This was an excellent result for the Year 10 team and testament to how far they have developed as a team and matured as individuals, as they lost to this same side 7-1 in last year's Cardiff and Vale Cup final. They will now play either St Teilos or Fitzalan Comprehensive in the final, to be played later this year.

Great result for Vale chess team!

ROUND five of the seven round Welsh Premier League saw the Vale play our nemesis, Cardiff.

We always seem to get them halfway through the season when we still have hopes of finishing in the top two only for these hopes to be dashed by defeat to Cardiff.

This time however it was our turn to win by a score of 3.5 to 2.5. This win was earned by drawing on the top three boards, an area where Cardiff are particularly strong, and winning two of the bottom three boards.

This victory has moved us up to second in the table with six points from four games.

We are flying the flag for the East Glamorgan League as we are behind Abergavenny, who we still have to play and only better Cardigan on tie-break.

Our other remaining game is against Nidum who are normally a very strong team but this season they are struggling at the bottom of the league - two wins and who knows!

There were also two league games for the Barry club. The Bosons played host to the Penarth Pirates and eventually took a 3-5 to 1.5 victory with three wins, a draw and a defeat.

This has temporarily moved the Bosons back to the top of the league but they have played more matches than their rivals and will likely drop to fourth when all the other teams complete their 16th matches as well.

In division 3 there was a tough encounter for the Quarks. In a match with evenly rated players the Quarks lost to the team immediately below them, the Cardiff Cavaliers, 3-2.

However with a big win for Pontypridd Phoenix the Quarks, Cavaliers and Phoenix now find themselves all on 42 points only separated by the tie break which is currently in favour of the Quarks.

With difficult matches against the two teams above them still to come, and only three games left, the Quarks could find themselves outside the promotion spots come the end of April!

The Barry Chess Club meets at 7.30pm each Monday at the West End Club. St. Nicholas Road, Barry CF62 6QY. The club is open to players of all standards; whether you are interested in playing competitive chess or just the occasional friendly games.

New players are very welcome to just turn up on the night but if you contact one of the club members through the website we can explain what is happening on the night you have in mind, and arrange for someone to greet you on your arrival.

Another Welsh title for Clinton!

AT the recent Welsh Championships YMCA Barry male section, once again, made their mark with brilliant results in all age categories.

The club's first success came from Ruben Punter who claimed bronze overall for the under- 12s. Ruben was up against a strong line-up which included British squad gymnasts.

Harri Morgan then went on to claim bronze for the under-14s and Josh Cook also claimed bronze in the under-16s category.

These gymnasts put in so much time, effort and dedication and were thoroughly worthy of such success. There were also great performances from Sammi Morgan, Sam Stopgate, Mason Gunter, Taylor and Louis Carter, who also competed in the junior age groups.

After an incredible morning for the YMCA Barry junior boys, the pressure was on for the senior gymnasts, who were competing for the first time since the Commonwealth Games, to keep up the success and of course, they did.

Iwan Mepham put in some fantastic performances on high bar, rings and floor but, due to a wrist injury, was unfortunately unable to compete in the vault, pommel or parallel bars.

Joe Rowland claimed gold on pommel and an incredible second place overall, with brilliant performances on all pieces.

Finally, the reigning Welsh champion, Clinton Purnell, walked away with his fifth Welsh title in a row, claiming gold on floor, vault, high bar, parallel bars and rings.

With the Welsh Championships behind them, there is no rest for the senior men as they continue training for the upcoming British Championships in March. We wish the boys every success and we know they will do the YMCA Barry proud.

Of course, special thanks goes to the hard working coaches Pete Haysham, Brad Haysham and Connor Lewis, who make all of this possible - congratulations to all.

Joel is off to join Toulon

JOEL RINGER, the captain of Cardiff and Vale College's Rugby Academy team, has been signed to top French team Toulon.

Joel has signed an academy contract with the French giants. The son of former Wales flanker Paul Ringer will be following in the footsteps of Leigh Halfpenny and Bryan Habana.

Joel said: "I'm very excited – it's an opportunity that no-one my age gets. Usually players my age end up in England if they decide to leave Wales. Toulon, in my opinion, is the best club side in the northern hemisphere."

When scouts from the club spoke to him, Joel said the decision to accept the academy offer was a "no-brainer".

The 18-year-old business studies student from Penarth will move out to Toulon, and his family will accompany him for the first few weeks as he settles down to his new life.

Joel said his experience at CAVC has stood him in good stead.

"The college has helped me and also the rugby academy has been hugely supportive," he explained. "The support on the sporting and academic side has been a massive help."

SIX NATIONS RUGBY

Who said rugby is boring?

The three-way tries bonanza that decided who dares wins the race to the Six Nations championship!

BACK PAGE COMMENT
by Don John

AS the Welsh players lined up against Italy at Stadio Olympico in Rome on Saturday for the start of a three-way guessing game over the final outcome of the 2015 Six Nations championship, they knew that win, lose or draw, they were in for a long afternoon.

Like Wales, two other rivals were also vying for the coveted title in what was to be a truly remarkable finale – each with just one loss behind them – but the complex maths meant that a simple win was unlikely to be enough, with Wales trailing way behind the others on points difference.

They were keenly aware that pre-tournament favourites Ireland would be up next to stake their claim against the struggling Scots at Murrayfield, while England were later favoured to beat the unpredictable French at home in Twickenham, and also had a higher tries haul – should it come down to that.

So the odds were firmly against head coach Warren Gatland's men from the start, and their only hope was to swamp the Italians under a deluge of points, while, at the same time, defending their own line, and trust that results elsewhere went their way – a risky strategy against dour opponents who had already claimed Scotland's scalp and, moreover, had never found any difficulty in running up double figures against Wales in the past.

Gatland himself acknowledged this banana skin beforehand, warning: "The worst thing for us would be to go out and try to score 40-50 points against Italy, end up playing too much rugby early on and lose the game – then find Scotland and France win and we have potentially cost ourselves the championship. Let's win the game first!"

The Kiwi was wise to be wary, for although Wales had won 18 of the 21 fixtures between the two since 1994, many of these were far from one-sided affairs: in fact, Italy had won two of the nine matches on their own soil (30-22 in 2003 and 23-20 in 2007), and had even earned a shock 18-18 draw at the Millennium Stadium in March 2006.

True, Wales had once steamrollered over the tournament's so-called 'minnows' (60-21 at Treviso), but that was way back in Rugby World Cup year 1999, 12 months before an emergent Italy entered the Six Nations, and the modern day descendants of ancient Rome have grown as a fighting force since then.

The big question now was – could Wales match or surpass that 1999 score line, to have any chance of wiping out the big points deficit – and throw down the gauntlet to the camps of their two main title rivals who would be anxiously looking on and doing their sums in Edinburgh and London?

It didn't look too promising when Wales were penalised straight from the kick-off and immediately fell three points behind; but Leigh Halfpenny equalised five minutes later when Italy were penalised and was then called on again in another exchange of penalties, which levelled the score at 6-6.

In the absence of injured first choice props Samson Lee and Gethin Jenkins, the Welsh scrum was expected to struggle, with inexperienced young recruits up against the gnarled old veterans of the Italian front row.

This indeed proved to be the case, but in fact, Ospreys' Aaron Jarvis and new boy Rob Evans (Scarlets) steadied well after early struggles up front and would go on to make their presence felt around the park as the game loosened up.

At this stage, though, it was Italy applying the pressure and it was somewhat against the run of play when Wales inched ahead through a try by Jamie Roberts, following a clever chip ahead by Halfpenny, who failed to convert.

Welsh relief was short lived when Italy regained the lead with a converted try four minutes later that took the score to 13-11. Then Wales suffered a further hammer blow when Halfpenny was injured making a try-saving tackle and was replaced by Scott Williams, who went on to the wing, with Liam Williams moving to full back.

Almost on the stroke of halftime, Wales were awarded a penalty which outside half Dan Biggar, who had taken over the kicking duties, lofted over to make the scoreline 13-14 to Wales.

The one-point lead at the change-over was a fair reflection of a below-par, error-riddled first half that made Welsh hopes of a title-winning points blitz seem a very distant dream indeed.

In fact, though, the second half saw a magical transformation, with an effervescent Wales running in seven tries from all directions (including a hat-trick by George North), all but one converted by Biggar, as they suddenly opened to the realisation that they had just 40 minutes to chase the championship dream.

It began with livewire Liam Williams, who raced through defenders to jubilantly touch down near the posts, and then set up North for the first of his three tries, before scrum half Rhys Webb darted over – quickly followed by two more North tries.

Skipper Sam Warburton then joined in the try spree with a lung-searing solo effort and Scott Williams' converted try completed a breathless second half which had yielded 47 points.

It was slightly marred by a breakaway converted try by Italy almost on the stroke of full time, to make the final score 20-61 – almost identical to that 1999 result in Treviso!

The 'who dares wins' challenge was for the Irish to triumph by 21 points, the English 26 points, if they were to snatch the Six Nations trophy.

The Welsh players had done all they could in an heroic effort, led (as always) from the front by Warburton and deserved man-of-the-match Alun Wyn Jones. They had raised the bar, and now had to wait on news from Murrayfield and Twickenham.

In the event, of course, last up England narrowly failed to reach the target set by six points, despite a 55-35 victory over France, leaving the jubilant Irish to retain the championship after crushing sorry Scotland by 40-10.

Perhaps, though, on a day when a total of 221 points were scored, including 27 tries, rugby union was the true winner – giving a timely reminder in World Cup year of how exciting a running game it can be – and not just turgid, crash-bang-wallop!

After such an impressive Six Nations rugby display, Wales, England and Ireland will be heading for the tournament with their hopes high, but they should be wary of seeing that final bonanza day as a repudiation of canny New Zealand coach Steve Hansen's comment on "boring", defensively-minded northern hemisphere rugby.

No doubt he intended it as an early psychological shot across the home nations' bows before RWC hostilities commence in the autumn.

In truth, though, teams throwing caution to the wind to chase points margins would suit the Kiwi coach no end, for it would play right into the hands of the southern hemisphere giants who are long conditioned to such a fast-paced style of play and have the weaponry in their arsenal to combat it.

Either way, the equally canny Kiwi, Gatland, is hardly likely to swallow the bait!

A COFFEE WITH CAIRNS

OUR reporter sat down for a coffee with Alun Cairns, to learn more about the man who has represented the residents of the Vale in Parliament since 2010.

Our reporter: Alun, you've been the Vale MP for five years – what have you tried to achieve?

Alun: There is no job description as an MP, but from the moment I was elected I wanted to do three things – pass laws in Parliament, champion Barry and the Vale and, importantly, help any resident that has been let down or treated unfairly.

It has been an incredibly interesting period and I feel like I am just getting started. I have tried to help as many people as possible, from the smallest issue to securing a life changing operation – I see helping people in any area of the Vale as my most important role.

Our reporter: What have you taken to Parliament from the Vale?

Alun: A major achievement has been the success of my call to change the law on nuisance phone calls. This issue was raised by Barry and the rural Vale residents, contacting me about the ridiculous amount of nuisance calls that we all received whether we wanted them or not. The law is set to be changed forcing companies to display their number when calling. This means residents can find out who is calling and block the calls.

It is my job to represent the views of my constituents – I have done so for the past five years and hope to continue to do the same after the election.

Our reporter: Do you have any other message for the residents of the Vale?

Alun: Just a simple thank you for allowing me the privilege of representing the Vale of Glamorgan in Parliament. I want to continue to serve, and I am looking forward to the election campaign. I hope to see the many people that I have met over the past few years when I am out knocking doors during the campaign.

If you see me, please say hello and if you have any questions during the campaign, just email me at alun@aluncairns.com

Alun Cairns working for Barry and Vale residents in Parliament

Alun has raised several thousands of pounds for charity. He is running in the 2015 London Marathon.

Alun Cairns is a backer of small business. The regeneration of Barry Island will grow the economy in the Vale.

This 4-page wrap has been funded by voluntary donations to the Vale of Glamorgan Conservatives.

MP calls for '4G' pitches across Barry and Vale

CAMPAIGN ON THE LOCAL SPORTS SCENE

Alun Cairns MP is campaigning for artificial, next-generation '4G' sports pitches to be installed in Barry and the Vale to prevent the postponement of sports matches in the winter months.

He recently met with coaches and players from the Barry Mini League, who told him that teams often go for many weeks without playing because of the poor state of the pitches.

Current facilities are often deemed unplayable during bad weather conditions, but artificial pitches are able to cope.

Sport Wales has made funding available for 4G pitches to be built in the Vale, and Alun is pressing to make sure that this is used for installations in Barry, Dinas Powys and Llantwit Major.

Alun said, "I have met with teams from Barry, Rhoose, Llantwit Major and Cowbridge to discuss the need for new artificial surface facilities.

"It is vital to ensure that Barry and the Vale have a full complement of 4G pitches as soon as possible to avoid disruptions to community sport.

"Getting children across the Vale playing sport is really important and a real passion of mine. It teaches teamwork and discipline alongside the obvious health benefits. Let's make sure they have the pitches they need."

Alun added: "Barry is the largest town in Wales, and the principal town in the Vale – we really need to see the investment being made in providing players of field sports with a facility that the community can use.

"We need to plans put in place so that players of all ages and abilities don't have to suffer another winter of postponements and poor playing surfaces."

Alun is calling for better sports facilities in Barry and the rural Vale. Children need the best opportunity to develop sporting skills.

Vale MP calls for airport 'ghost bus' to be scrapped to save local bus services

Figures obtained by Vale of Glamorgan MP Alun Cairns show that the barely-used T9 Airport Express service costs nearly £450,000 per year to run.

Alun Cairns, a long standing critic of the T9 service is dismayed at the huge cost of running the unpopular airport link bus at a time when local bus services need support.

The T9, dubbed the 'M'T9 and 'Ghost Bus' by local people, costs £1,499 per day in the summer and £849 per day during the winter months.

Peter Woodford, a Barry resident, said, "I see the T9 going up and down Port Road. Most of the time it looks completely empty. I can't believe the Labour Welsh Government are spending so much money on a service that is barely used."

Alun Cairns wants to see the money spent on the T9 allocated to local bus routes.

He said, "It is a shame that at the same time as cutting subsidies to the buses that local people rely on, the Labour Welsh Government have decided to prioritise spending on a service attracting so little demand.

"As part of my campaign to secure bus services in Barry and the Vale, I want to see T9 funding used to support local buses."

EMPLOYMENT BOOM IN BARRY AND VALE

Alun Cairns MP has welcomed the news that unemployment continues to fall in Barry and the Vale, with 381 fewer people claiming job seekers allowance since February 2014.

Since 2010, unemployment has fallen significantly and more families have been able to build on the security of a regular wage to get on life. In the Vale, more than 38,000 residents have seen their income tax cut since 2010 and the 2015 budget set out a plan to further boost job prospects growth locally.

Alun regularly visits companies across all areas of the Vale to better understand the issues affecting business, and to hear exciting plans for job creation in a number of industries. Employment prospects continue to improve in the Vale, with significant investment being made by many companies and the regeneration of Barry Island.

Alun said: "It is great news that unemployment continues to fall in the Vale of Glamorgan. We are now entering a sustained period of recovery and the Government will stick to the long-term economic plan. I am encouraged by the confidence being shown by local businesses investing in growth and job creation."

Alun added: "I find it inspiring to see entrepreneurs grow their businesses, and I want to attract them to the Vale of Glamorgan. These businesses create job and apprenticeships for our sons and daughters. The Conservative long-term economic plan is designed to support the next big business project here in Barry and the Vale."
